THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXII. ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 4, 1891. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

REED AND HIS GANG.

REVIEW OF THE WORK OF THE CZAR AND HIS PUPPETS.

DISGRACEFUL RECORD OF THIS CONGRESS.

The Closing Scenes in the House and Senate—Columbus and Athens Get Courts—Chickamauga Park.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—In a few short hours the fifty-first congress will be ended. Its proceedings will be handed down as the most reckless, revolutionary and extravagant in the history of the country. At high noon tomorrow Speaker Reed will step down from the exalted position he has occupied so long and besmirched so often, with the consciousness that in demolishing all precedents, he stands without parallel. This congress stands out in the broad light of public opinion as excelling in profligacy, revolutionary rulings, petty personal spite and lamentable constitutional infractions, any other congress this country has ever known.

It is beyond computation how many times the burly, tyrannical speaker has premeditatedly violated the solemn oath taken at the bar of the house last December one year ago. He has pursued his uneven course without conscience or a thought of consequences. Even when his pirate gang was repudiated at the polls last November, he only checked his mad career for a few short days. He has been lawless, disgraceful and devoid of all principles of dignity. Indeed, so strongly have these characteristic traits of Tom Reed been developed that his thoughtless followers became imbued with them, and fisticuffs, obscene remarks, criminal occupations and proceedings that would have done credit to a prize-fighting ring have frequently occurred. It is with a feeling of relief that the intelligent thinkers will close the chapter of this congress and settle down to the conviction that Speaker Reed's action will never be referred to when a precedent is required. As the end draws near it is worth while to reflect for a moment upon some of the disgraceful scenes which have characterized this congress. They began in the early part of the first session, when Reed construed the rules to his own way of thinking, and unseated Jackson, of West Virginia, in order to seat Smith. From that time forth parliamentary rule ceased to be the guiding star. All precedents were reversed and the house of representatives was ruled with a rod of iron which was bent over the backs of even those who were subservient to the dictation of the supreme being who occupied the chair. The result was continued disorder which culminated in the obscene utterances of Joe Cannon and the subsequent fist fight between Beckwith, of New Jersey, and Wilson, of Washington.

Six times during this session has the man been called into requisition. One member has been censured and on several occasions riots of large proportions have only been avoided by the cool action of the leaders on both sides.

Enormous appropriations have been made which will inflict a heavy burden upon the democratic house in the next congress. An iniquitous tariff has been added, and only after a severe and exhausting struggle was that most infamous of all evils, the force bill, laid to rest in its unhallowed grave. A big deficit in the treasury is left as a legacy to the incoming democratic houses, which must be shouldered and made good as best it may. In every particular this congress has failed to accomplish that for which its members were elected.

Pushing the Work.

Both houses have been in a push all day to get through by noon tomorrow. The senate has added many millions to all the appropriation bills, and is running appropriations up to an enormous figure.

Since 2 o'clock the senate has been dragging along sluggishly, but the house is all excitement. The galleries are crowded, and the members are good natured, but wrought to a high pitch of excitement. A resolution, appropriating $40,000 for a commission to investigate the alcoholic liquor traffic, is now up. It is a good theme for the eloquence of the prohibition orators.

The vote was taken at midnight on the resolution. It was defeated by 97 to 126. The temperance men declare this to be a wet congress.

The Agricultural Appropriation Bill.

The senate adopted the conference report, which includes, among other features, the senate amendment allowing sorghum sugar makers to use spirits free of tax.

The senate receded from its amendment appropriating $20,000 for silk, this cause going out of the bill altogether.

The sum of $150,000 is appropriated for the distribution of seeds to destitute citizens, and $45,000 for additional agricultural experiment stations.

The Copyright Bill Passes.

After a long discussion in the senate, the conference report on the copyright bill was agreed to—yeas, 27; nays, 19.

The bill went to the house and, after a long debate, the conference report was agreed to by a vote of 27 to 77. The vote was greeted with applause by the gallery.

It was thought that this secured the passage of the bill, but, at 2:25 a. m., Senator Pasco moved to reconsider the vote agreeing to the conference report on the bill, and also moved that the house be requested to return the bill to the senate.

The chances are both houses will remain in session until about 7 o'clock, when recesses will be taken for breakfast; then there will be a great rush until the gavels fall at noon. Much interest is felt in what Reed will say when he lays down the gavel.

The Chicamauga Park.

An amendment of much importance to the residents on the land of the proposed Chicamauga park in Georgia was inserted in the sundry civil bill and adopted by congress today.

The original act required the condemnation of this property by process of the United States court at Atlanta and the marshal of the court has already notified the owners of the property to appear in Atlanta next Monday. The amendment to the bill today, however, sets all this aside and the attorney general has ordered suspension of such proceedings. The land will now simply be bought and paid for in the ordinary manner without causing any inconvenience to the property owners and without burdening the district attorney and the court at Atlanta with all the unnecessary labor contemplated in the first provision made some weeks ago.

Apropos of this, the secretary of war, the Chicamauga park commissioners and Mr. Clements, who has been the main mover in passing the appropriation, leave here on Monday next to visit the park. They will go to Chattanooga and from thence to the park. Then the party will go to Atlanta and Secretary Proctor will inspect the McPherson barracks. Both General Fullerton and General Boynton, members of the park commission, will be in the party. General Boynton is the distinguished correspondent of The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette and is well known in Atlanta.

Brass Bands for Two.

Both the Columbus and Athens federal court bills passed the senate today just as they passed the house. Senator Colquitt seized an opportunity between appropriation bills this afternoon and without debate the bills were passed in a few minutes. They go to the president tonight and will be signed before noon tomorrow.

The counties forming the Columbus judicial district are Muscogee, Heard, Troup, Meriwether, Harris, Talbot, Taylor, Marion, Chattahoochee, Stewart, Schley, Webster, Quitman, Clay, Randolph, Early, Miller and Terrell.

Those in the Athens district are Banks, Clarke, Elbert, Franklin, Greene, Habersham, Hart, Jackson, Morgan, Madison, Oglethorpe, Oconee and Walton.

Judge Newman will hold court at both cities. There shall be two terms of the Athens court—one commencing the fourth Monday in May, the other commencing the fourth Monday in December. There will likewise be two terms in Columbus—one commencing on the second Monday in January, the other commencing the second Monday in June.

Naturally, both Mr. Grimes and Mr. Carlton are happy. Mr. Grimes has succeeded in getting both a public building and a court for Columbus this season. Mr. Carlton having gotten his court, the public building must come when the next congress meets. In view of the fact that both of these bills have been fought through congress in face of much opposition from certain officials in Georgia, the two distinguished retiring congressmen deserve much praise. If Athens and Columbus fail to have a brass band at the depots when they return, both cities deserve to be boycotted.

Decidedly Crisp.

A canvass of the house today develops the fact that over two-thirds of the re-elected democrats to the next house are for Judge Crisp for speaker. His election is now almost an absolute certainty. He will have more votes than all the other candidates combined. Unless all signs fail he will get the nomination on the first ballot in the caucus.

They Want Culberson.

A petition has been signed by nearly 200 congressmen and senators requesting the president to appoint Judge Culberson, of Texas, judge of the sixth judicial circuit, provided for in the new circuit court law. Although Judge Culberson is a staunch democrat, has served eighteen years in congress and has been re-elected, it is believed that on account of his great legal ability Mr. Harrison will appoint him. Judge Culberson has had the reputation for ten years of being the ablest lawyer in either house of congress. His opinions are sought on all questions, and it is certain that no better man to fill the office could be found in America. The sixth circuit comprises Georgia.

Georgia P. M.'s.

Georgia postmasters appointed today: D. S. Stephens, Chulio, Floyd county; A. J. Strickland, Bay, Colquitt county; H. E. Archer, Guyton, Effingham county; J. M. Doolittle, Oscoela, Oconee county.

E. W. B.

ROUTINE OF BOTH HOUSES.

The Most Important Work of the Day Briefly Put.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—[Special.]—In the senate much time was consumed in discussing the general deficiency bill including the French spoliation claims and Pacific railway claims.

Then followed a discussion of the merits of claims in which a dozen or more senators participated and which lasted so long that finally an appeal was made to the senators to stop the discussion and to pass the bill before it was too late. A vote was taken, and the French spoliation claims amendment was agreed to—yeas, 41; nays, 14.

Mr. Faulkner's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Stewart offered an amendment to reimburse to the states of California, Oregon, and Nevada, moneys expended by them in the suppression of the rebellion, $2,451,369 to California, $224,526 to Oregon, and $404,040 to Nevada.

The amendment was agreed to without division.

Mr. Daniel moved to insert a paragraph directing the secretary of the treasury to resettle and pay the claims of the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and South Carolina and the city of Baltimore on account of advances made in the war of 1812; and appropriating $2,500,000 for that purpose.

The motion was agreed to—yeas, 28; nays, 22.

The bill was then passed and sent to the house with senate amendments.

The debates was suspended and the conference reports were presented and agreed to on the Indian and postoffice appropriation bills.

Then the conference report on the copyright bill was presented and Mr. Platt explained it. He said that if the reports were not agreed to it would be equivalent to the defeat of the bill. If the report were agreed to, it would provide that books which were on the free list under the McKinley bill (two copies) could be imported free of duty. It left out Sherman's amendment. It left every one at liberty to import two copies of foreign books by paying duty on them, and it left newspapers and magazines to be imported, provided they did not contain copyrighted matter. That was all that there was to the agreement, and it took the place of all that the senate had been quarreling about.

In the House.

The conference report on the pension appropriation bill was presented and agreed to.

The agreement provides that hereafter no pension attorney shall receive a fee of more than $2 in any claim for an increase of pension. No compensation shall be allowed for securing a special act of congress granting a pension or an increase of pension in any case that has been presented at the pension office, or allowance under the general pension law.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, took occasion to call attention to the fact that nearly every important measure passed under the present rules "to expedite business" had to be amended by a subsequent joint resolution. This house had opened in confusion, had continued in confusion, and it looked as if it would end in confusion. There was but one consolation, and that was that tomorrow the country could say: The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord." [Laughter.]

The amendment was agreed to, and the joint resolution, as amended, passed.

THE CHINESE AND GRANNY BLAIR.

A Rumor That the Chinese Government Objects to the New Minister.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A rumor has been current here to the effect that, upon information cabled by the Chinese minister here, the Chinese government had entered an objection to Senator Blair as minister to that country. The Chinese minister being in Peru, Mr. Yo, one of the attaches of the legation, was today questioned and in reply to inquiries said that there was absolutely no truth in the report, and added:

"The cablegram was, of course, sent, but it was the merest announcement that Mr. Blair had been nominated and that the nomination had been confirmed. It was less than twenty words in length and probably not more than ten. No criticism was given and no word has been received from the Chinese government in answer to the message.

"Any action hostile to the appointment would be taken presumaby on information sent from here, and nothing against Mr. Blair has been sent or is likely to be sent. We have, of course, made investigations, but all we have found out is favorable to the appointment rather than against it. However, I have noticed that honesty does not always beget popularity, and I suppose that rumor was started out of jealousy or ill feeling."

"Then the whole thing was a fake? A slang phrase, but expressive."

"That's it, exactly. I have been in this country long enough to know what fake is, even if I do not use the word myself, and I should call the whole story about Mr. Blair a fake."

Mr. Blaine said that so far as he knew there was nothing whatever in the story that the Chinese government had protested against the appointment.

FOR A ROUND MILLION.

MADAME BARRUNDIA SUES THE UNITED STATES

FOR THE ASSASSINATION OF HER HUSBAND

What the Declaration Sets Forth—A Question of International Law—A Flaw in the Papers.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Transito Hurtate, widow of J. Martin Barrundia, in her own name, and as the representative of her six minor daughters, and Ramon Bengolchea, as the representative of his wife, Teresa Barrundia de Bengolchea, have filed with the secretary of state a claim against the United States for $1,000,000 for having surrendered General Barrundia to the Guatemala authorities, at whose hands he lost his life. The claim, the petitioners say, is based on the explicit and precise declarations of the president of the United States, in his last annual message to congress, that Minister Mizner, in issuing the order for the surrender of Barrundia, exceeded the bounds of his authority, and acted in violation of precedents established in similar cases, for which reason the United States government disavowed his act and recalled him from his post.

The petitioners argue that "Mizner acted in everything he did as a United States minister and as a legal representative of his nation and, it seems evident, according to the unanimous opinion of all authors, that if he is responsible to his government, that the government is responsible to us, in that it is bound to indemnify us for the injury that was caused to us by its representative through his violation in the person of General Barrundia, of the guarantees furnished in such cases by international law and even by the principles of humanity."

In closing, the petitioners say:

We ask that the sum of $1,000,000 be paid to us, which we hope will be granted so that the United States government may act consistently with the declarations made in the president's message to which we have referred, and may repair so far as possible the injury that has been caused to us by its representative, for whose acts it is responsible.

There is a defect in this claim which, in the opinion of the state department officials, will prove fatal to it, and that is the fact that it is made by citizens of a foreign country without the knowledge and consent of that country. It is said there that it is a well established principle in this country, as well as nearly all others, that the claims of the citizens of one country against another are recognized only when presented in the name of the country of which the claimant is a citizen.

DEMOCRATIC IOWA.

The Iowa Elections Show a Sweeping Victory for the Democrats.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Reports of the municipal elections held throughout Iowa yesterday, show that at Iowa City the democrats made a clean sweep of all the offices except one trustee. Their mayor had 300 majority.

At Fort Madison the democrats were successful. Their city council will stand eight democrats to two republicans.

At Ottumwa the democrats elect a mayor by 400 majority, and make a gain of four in the council, which body will stand eight democrats and four republicans. The democrats elect all the other city officers over the republican and the citizens' tickets.

At Creston the democrats elect a mayor and three out of five aldermen.

At Burlington only one republican candidate ran in the city election, and he was defeated by a small majority in the fourth ward. The other candidates were democrats.

At Mason City the citizens' ticket was elected almost unanimously.

At Waterloo, S. J. Hoot was re-elected mayor by a vote of 680 to 430. Two years ago Hoot was working on a cobbler's bench when he was elected mayor, largely through the votes of the Knights of Labor. The entire ticket elected is democratic except the treasurer. The council, however, is largely republican.

At Cedar Falls a republican mayor was elected.

At Laporte City the straight republican ticket was elected.

Elections in Maine.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Municipal elections were held in Maine yesterday.

In Portland the election resulted in no choice for mayor. True, republican, had 2,871; Ingraham, democrat, 2,754, and Deering, prohibitionist, 269. Another election will be held about the 16th instant.

In Hallowell, E. E. Bean, the citizens' candidate, was chosen for mayor by 1 majority.

In Lewiston, Newell, democrat, was elected mayor by 380 plurality. Hon. A. M. Spear, republican, was re-elected mayor of Gardiner.

Auburn elects Savage, republican, by 529 plurality.

Ellsworth re-elects Mayor Davis, republican.

Bath elects almost the full republican city ticket.

Waterville chose Jones, democrat, for mayor by a plurality of 89.

The republicans of Saco re-elected Mayor Tomle.

Waterville never before had a democratic mayor.

ANOTHER CRISIS THREATENED.

The Farmers Say if Streeter Can't Win Palmer Will.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 3.—When the joint assembly met today one republican and one democrat were absent, being unavoidably delayed en route to the capitol. The 134th ballot resulted: Palmer, 100; Streeter, 86; Oglesby, 10; Lindley, 2; Gresham, 1; Wulff, 3. Another ballot was taken with but a slight change in the result, and the joint assembly adjourned till tomorrow.

The farmer members were indignant today at the falling off of republicans in the vote for Streeter and notified the steering committee flatly that the crisis had been reached which must culminate in a day or two in the election of either Streeter or Palmer.

There was a stormy meeting of the steering committee this afternoon at which the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association men sharply rebuked the republicans for insincerity and added that unless a full republican vote is brought into line for Streeter, the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association members will break all regulations at once. As a result a call has been issued for an immediate meeting of the Republican State Central Committee for the purpose of formally endorsing the steering committee's action and bringing into line those republicans who now refuse to vote for Streeter.

If they hold out against the state central committee it is the intention of the steering committee to call a caucus at once and make Streeter the nominee of the republican party.

ALGER IN BIRMINGHAM.

Will Boom Him for Vice and Blaine for President.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—[Special.]—General Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, passed through this city Saturday, en route to Florida, with his family. While here he had a conference with some prominent republican politicians. Today these politicians received a circular, marked confidential, which urged them to attend a meeting of republican clubs to be held at Cincinnati April 21st. The last paragraph of the letter says: "Hon. James G. Blaine and General Russel A. Alger will be present at the meeting." The gentlemen who received the letter are of the opinion the proposed meeting is for the purpose of booming Blaine for president and Alger for vice president.

North Carolina's Legislature.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The legislature today unanimously passed the bill allowing Charlotte to issue $300,000 of improvement bonds. The legislature also elected the following as trustees to the newly established state female training school for white teachers: W. P. Shaw, R. H. Stancill, B. F. Aycock, E. McK. Goodwin, H. G. Cheatham, C. S. Noble, A. C. McAllister, J. M. Speinhour and R. D. Gilmer.

The legislature has finally disposed of the bill to reduce the legal rate to 6 per cent by tabling it. It was at first understood that the alliance was in a large degree pledged to make this reduction.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED BY A GANG OF NEGROES.

A LYNCHING IS HIGHLY PROBABLE.

Robbery and Attempted Murder in Madison County—A Wife Murderer in Birmingham Has a Narrow Escape.

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Last night at 10 o'clock, R. R. Saulter, proprietor of a grocery store in Madison county, seven miles from Athens, was called by four men who wanted to buy some whisky and tobacco. Mr. Saulter sold them two jugs of whisky and two plugs of tobacco, amounting to $4. One of the negroes said:

"What if a man hasn't got the money?"

Just then one of the gang shot Mr. Saulter, the ball entering the right side of his neck, felling him. As he was down one of the negroes shot him again through the breast, the ball entering his back.

At this moment Mr. Saulter called for his wife who was in a room adjoining the store. As Mrs. Saulter came she was shot in the elbow, the ball shattering her arm.

The robbers then fled, but soon came back and knocked on the back door. Mr. Saulter, thinking they were friends, went to the door to let them in, but as soon as they got in his room he was shot again, the ball entering below the right nipple.

The gang then broke in and demanded money and the keys to the cash drawer. Mr Saulter gave them the key provided they would spare his life. They got $200 in silver but in their haste overlooked a roll of specie amounting to $500.

The robbers then fled and nothing has been heard of them.

Mr. Saulter's condition is very critical. Dr. Hale from Athens, was called to see the wounded man, and Mr. Saulter offers $1,000 for the capture of the would-be murderers. The citizens are very much excited and companies are being formed to capture the villains. If they are arrested they will be lynched.

TRIED TO LYNCH HIM.

A Husband Shoots His Wife to Death and Narrowly Escapes Lynching.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—[Special.]—Horse Creek, a mining town twenty miles west of this city, was the scene of a horrible tragedy this morning.

Dr. R. J. Matthews, the leading physican of the place, shot his wife three times, killing her instantly. The murder was committed in the presence of their five children, the youngest of whom is only a year old.

In thirty minutes after the tragedy an angry mob of hot-headed men surrounded Dr. Matthews and took him from the men who had him in charge. He fought like a wild beast but was soon securedly bound and with a rope around his neck his captors dragged him to the nearest tree.

Just then two officers arrived and, assisted by some of the older citizens, they succeeded in saving Matthews from the mob and landed him in jail. There is great excitement and it is believed another attempt to lynch him will be made tonight.

Drink was the cause of the murder. Last night Matthews was on a spree and quarreled with his wife when he went home. This morning he renewed the quarrel and shot her as she rose from the bed.

VISITED BY WHITE CAPS.

A North Carolinian Defies a Mob of Eighteen Men.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 3.—[Special.]—News of a daring deed attempted by a masked gang of white caps on a respectable citizen in Union county reached Charlotte late tonight. The facts are as follows: Mr. J. M. Helms, a highly respected farmer living six miles from Monroe, was aroused from his midnight slumbers last night by a loud cry at his front gate. He got up to see what was the matter and to his utter astonishment he saw eighteen masked men who said they had come to have a conversation with him.

Mr. Helms told them that he would talk with them one at a time. They told him that they came to demand a payment of $50 for a barn which they accused him of burning.

Mr. Helms promptly told them he did not have the money, if he had they would not get it, and that he did not burn the barn.

The wild mob of white caps attempted to break into the house and drag Mr. Helms from his comfortable quarters, but they were confronted with doors heavily barred, and in the meanwhile Mr. Helms had securely hid himself in his garret. This he says he did because he had no means of defense save an ax.

The angry mob howled around the house for an hour, and, finding that they could not gain admittance, they spoke in loud tones and told Mr. Helms that they would give him one month to be out of the state, and if he was not gone at that time they would hang him as high as Haman. That entire section of the county is terribly stirred up at present, and an investigation will follow.

THEY KILLED HENNESSEY.

The Lines Being Drawn Tighter About the Italian Suspects.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 3.—[Special.]—The Hennessey trial today was devoted strictly to the taking of testimony, and in a sitting of over seven hours about twenty witnesses were examined.

Politz was identified as one of the men who brought some guns in sacks to the Italian grocery store on Poydras street two days before the shooting. He was also identified as being present at the shooting and slipping and falling while running away, his gun going into the gutter, where it was picked up the next day.

Bagnetto and Scoffedi were again identified as having been present at the shooting. Scoffedi was further identified as the man in the oil cloth coat, who stood at the corner and fired at Hennessey, and Scoffedi, Politz, Sincari and Natali were recognized as the men who stole away in the darkness in the direction of New Canal.

The finding of guns and shells along the route taken by the fleeing murderers was proven and the weapons identified. They were double-barreled shotguns, with sawed-off barrels; two with skeleton stocks working on hinges, folding away into small compasses. Some of the experts in firearms testified that they never saw such guns before. There will be no court tomorrow.

Stephenson Sent to Jail.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—[Special.]—Wellington Stephenson, cashier at the freight depot of the Kansas City railroad, who was arrested yesterday for embezzlement, today waived examination, and being unable to make bond went to jail. The total amount of shortage, so far as can be learned from a hasty examination of the books, is $1,833. Stephenson offers no explanation and has not made a statement.

A Sick Juryman.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—[Special.]—When the criminal court met this morning to continue the trial of Mrs. Julia Martin for the murder of her brother-in-law Ed Martin, William Thompson, one of the jurors, was reported sick. Thompson said he had heart disease, and the excitement of being drawn on the jury in such a sensational case, had brought on a severe attack of his malady, and he was unable to sit in the box. He was examined by a physician who said it would endanger the man's life to serve on the jury. The case was then continued to April 16th.

MR. INMAN WILL ACCEPT.

The Rumors Concerning the Central Presidency Confirmed.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Mr. Hugh T. Inman will be the president of the Central Railroad and Banking Company.

The often repeated rumor to that effect was confirmed at the Terminal offices today.

The statement is made that Mr. Inman is to be president, with a salary of $20,000 a year.

At the office of the Richmond Terminal railway this report was confirmed, though it was said the change would be delayed because of the death of John H. Hall.

THE SENATORS AND THE ALLIANCE.

The Letters of George and Walthall Create Some Excitement.

JACKSON, Miss., March 3.—[Special.]—The letters of Senators Walthall and George, pronouncing against the subtreasury, are the chief topics of conversation in political circles. Senator George's letter was only received and read here today.

Assistant State Alliance Treasurer McAllister is in the city. In an interview, he said: "I have read the views of Senators George and Walthall on the subtreasury with gratification. These gentlemen will be overwhelmingly endorsed upon the question and upon their course generally. For Mississippi to fail to return them would be a calamity to the state and to the country at large. Their views are shared by most of the leading alliancemen of Mississippi with whom I have recently talked, some of them the highest officials in the order. The preservation of white supremacy in Mississippi is paramount to any and all economic questions. The element in Mississippi, with few honorable exceptions, which is forcing the subtreasury question to the front and seeking to make an issue in the selection of members to the legislature, is notoriously the disaffected element which came to the surface in the greenback flat-money craze and materialized in the Ben Kig campaign in 1887, co.l sing with the republicans against the regular democracy. Their efforts now will fail as ingloriously as they did then. The attempt to make the subtreasury question a test in the election of senators is unfortunate in the extreme, as it will inevitably result in failure and disaster to the alliance as it has in Alabama and elsewhere."

EMMA ABBOTT'S REMAINS.

Said to Have Been Cremated in Pittsburg. Her Ashes in New York.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 3.—It leaked out today that the remains of Emma Abbott, the famous singer, had been cremated in this city two weeks ago. Her ashes were placed in a small jar and shipped to New York. They are now in the vaults of the safe deposit company in that city, where they will remain until the erection of a monument to the deceased singer.

THE OLD SOLDIERS' SCHEME

MONTICELLO, Ill., March 3.—The confederate veterans of Vicksburg, Miss., have sent to this city, to an aide-de-camp of the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, plans for a proposed reunion of the blue and the gray at Chicago during the world's fair. The plan, as outlined by Colonel E. O. Carroll and Major Lamar Fountaine, of the confederate army, is to have a pavilion erected at Chicago, to be called "the blue and the gray," for the old veterans of both armies, in which flags, swords, guns and other relics will be stored, the veterans to camp in tents furnished by the war department. The various states will be asked to furnish transportation for old soldiers within their borders, and the government will be asked to furnish rations. A blue and gray building is to be be built by all the states combined. The governors of the different states will appoint committees to carry out the programme. The reunion is expected to last from ten to thirty days. The confederates have written to the president asking his assistance to carry out their plans for the reunion, and the southern senators and congressmen have also been called on to aid in the work.

THE CAMPAIGN IN IRELAND.

Seizure of the Funds of the Tipperary Branch League—A Free Fight.

BELFAST, March 3.—Henry Harrison, member of parliament for Middle Tipperary, visited the offices of the Belfast branch of the national league yesterday and seized all the money and documents he could lay his hands on. Members of the league were hastily summoned, and a fiery discussion followed. The members denounced Harrison in more vigorous than polite language and repudiated the authority of the central league. A number of Harrison's friends arrived upon the scene while the discussion was going on, and declared that Dublin, or the central branch of the league, had authorized the seizure made by Harrison, owing to the disorganized stand and disloyalty of the Belfast branch towards Parnell. Harrison and his friends then declared the branch dissolved. A free fight followed between Harrison's friends and their opponents of the Belfast league, fists, sticks and chairs being freely used. Finally the police appeared in force and cleared the league building.

Rival meetings composed of supporters and opponents of Parnell were subsequently held, at which it was resolved to support Parnell and McCarthy, respectively.

THERE WILL BE A CHANGE

On Account of the Little Unpleasantness in Paris.

PARIS, March 3.—That the disturbance caused by the visit of Empress Frederick to this city has not entirely subsided is shown by the fact that the air is full of rumors of changes of a diplomatic nature. It is reported that in the event of such changes being made, M. Herbette, the present French ambassador at Berlin, upon whose shoulders a considerable amount of blame for the unpleasantness has been thrown, will be sent to London as a successor to Waddington, the present French ambassador to Great Britain. On the other hand, rumor has it that Von Radowitz, German ambassador at Constantinople, will succeed Von Munster as German ambassador at Paris. Still, according to these political reports, General Von Waldersee, ex-chief of the general staff of the German army, who is now in command of the Ninth army corps, will replace Prince Von Hohenlohe Schillingsfurst as governor of Alsace Lorraine. The latter, it is announced, will resign the important position he now holds.

ATTACKING SIR JOHN.

A Quebec Paper Says He Is Trying to Frighten the People.

QUEBEC, March 3.—The Electeur accuses Sir John MacDonald of being a foe of the Catholic church, and calls upon French Canadians to oppose him as such. It quotes The Grange Sentinel's criticism of Roman Catholicism published some years ago as being Sir John's own views, and says that because he cannot now enlist Rome and the church in his own cause, since they are more friendly to Mericier and Mowat, he is trying to frighten them with the bugbear of annexation, and so compel them to follow him. The article has created quite a sensation.

COL. FELLOWS EXPLAINS.

HE TELLS OF HIS VIEWS ON STATE'S RIGHTS

AND ANSWERS SOME CRITICISMS.

He Has a Word to Say About Imputations Upon His Courage—O'Connor on Treason.

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Special.]—When Colonel John R. Fellows was shown by your correspondent extracts from leading southern newspapers, bitterly attacking his war record and his present views of democratic policy on account of the speech he made at the Washington birthday dinner of a democratic club in this city, Colonel Fellows said he was much surprised at the way in which his remarks had been received.

"Any one," said he, "who was present at the dinner could understand the circumstances. In the course of his speech Judge Davis had expressed, in most positive terms, the detestation in which he held what is generally known as the state's rights doctrine. I at once alluded to the position Judge Davis had taken on the state's rights doctrine and said that I too differed with a great many democrats, but I said that there was a profound difference, as I understood it, between the doctrine of state sovereignty, in which I firmly believe, and between the state's rights doctrine, as far as it held to include the rights of a state to secede from the union. It is the right of each state—a right which has never been ceeded to the federal union—to exercise state sovereignty over, and make all laws and regulations controlling marriage and divorce, its judiciary system, its educational system and its elective system. When by state's rights, the right to exercise these pewers without dictation by any other power is meant, then I do firmly believe in state's rights; but when state's rights are held to mean the right of a state to secede, I do not believe in it. Besides, were the question a debatable one, the arbitrament of war has decided it in the negative."

When Colonel Fellows was told how southern newspapers had reflected upon his war record, and how a Colonel Lylye had declared that when in command of one wing of the confederate army on the lower Mississippi, Colonel Fellows had held practically a headquarters' position, he expressed the indignation natural in a brave man when his courage is attacked. In a perfectly calm voice he declared that his war record spoke for itself and needed no justification or defense.

"In the quarter of a century that has passed since it was made," said a friend who was present, "Colonel Fellows's war record has been the subject of unbounded eulogism by his late brethren in arms and it is now too late for these ill-considered and utterly baseless attacks upon him."

"Besides," added Colonel Fellows, himself now smiling, "the particular part of the speech which seems to have excited my assailants, as I learned from some published reports of it, was, in reality, nothing more than a bit of pleasantry, on my part. After having expressed my opinions on state sovereignty and the right to secede, and having mentioned the fact that the southern people were by no means conscious of being in rebellion against the constitution of the country, but rather, if anything, believed that the north and the rest of the country was itself in rebellion against the constitution, I jocularly observed that with my own views of secession, and however earnestly I had fought in the southern cause, I myself could be held no less than a traitorous rebel; and smiling, I added, 'that perhaps I owe my present health and prosperity to the clemency of the victors who spared my life.'"

Colonel Fellows then referred incidentally to the difficulty of determining just what is treason against the constitutional government of the United States and spoke of the fact that Charles O'Connor and others of the ablest lawyers of the United States at that time had advised the government against trying Jefferson Davis for treason at Richmond for the reason that it might possibly turn out that he had not been guilty of treason.

TOWN LOTS FOR A DOLLAR EACH.

Texas Negroes on Their Way to Oklahoma.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., March 3.—During the past ten days 300 negroes passed through this city en route to Oklahoma to settle there. Nearly all come from eastern Texas, and are a most distressed and hard-looking set, destitute of money, clothing, provisions, farming implements and everything necessary to prevent starvation and suffering in the new country. A white man from Oklahoma has been representing to them that they could secure a good farm for a very little cost, and has also sold to nearly every one of these migrating negroes town lots for $1 each. These lots were represented to be located in the heart of large towns and to be worth $100. Every negro had a deed to some imaginary town lot.

North Carolina Railroad Commissioners.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 3.—[Special.]—There is unusual interest here tonight in the democratic legislative caucus to nominate three railway commissioners. Twenty-eight men were placed in nomination. Balloting began at 10 o'clock. Those who are leading in the exciting contest are Eugene C. Beddingfield, secretary, and Elias Carr, president of the state alliance, James W. Wilson, Octavius Cohen, Thomas W. Mason and John H. Dillard. On the second ballot Beddingfield was nominated and on the third ballot James W. Wilson, of Northampton, was nominated. The three will compose the commission.

THROUGH THE STATE.

NEWS FROM THE COMMONWEALTH OF GEORGIA.

Death of Mr. John H. Hall, at Thomasville—The Day in Macon—Georgia Brevities.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Mr. John H. Hall, of New York, whose dying condition was announced yesterday, died this morning at 7 o'clock, in his room in the Mitchell house, in this city.

Since his illness he had had every attention medical skill and friends could render, but he grew rapidly worse until the sad end came, when death relieved his sufferings.

Mr. Hall was president of the Georgia company and first vice president of the Georgia Central. Manager Gabbett, of the Central, came up yesterday in his private car and took the remains, together with the grieved sister, off on the noon train for the north.

GOING FOR THE GAMBLERS.

The Americus City Treasury Being Rapidly Replenished.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Judge Pillsbury of the county court is going for the gamblers. Fines aggregating $1,000 were collected from six of the law breakers today. Several other cases, the result of the raid telegraphed THE CONSTITUTION some weeks ago, will be tried. Among the defendants is a widely known newspaper man of this city, and a prominent Savannah cotton factor.

J. L. Presley, who was shot by the Bailey boys, is sinking rapidly, and will doubtless be dead before morning. Public sympathy is with the Messrs. Bailey, who acted in defense of their mother and sister.

A party of Americus gentlemen, twenty-five strong, went hunting today and bagged 1,200 doves. The shooting match took place in Mr. J. L. Page's field, six miles from the city. Mr. Arthur Rylander was the champion shot, killing seventy-five birds. Over 2,500 shots were fired, and doves rained down upon the merry hunters.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Some Valuable Lots Sold in Macon and Beautiful Vineville.

MACON, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Macon real estate continues firm and advancing. If any doubted this statement they were convinced by the sale of lots today at public outcry.

The two Armstrong lots on Washington avenue, in the rear of the Baptist church, were sold. Mr. W. B. Willingham bought one at $3,000 and Mr. C. E. Armstrong purchased the other at $2,275.

The Philip Lamar property, in Vineville, had been divided into three lots. They were sold today for $27,505. This is a large price, and shows the value of suburban property.

It is reported that the Sparks warehouse property, which belongs to the Armstrong estate, will soon be placed on the market. It is said to be well worth $50,000.

There is some talk of the site being bought by a syndicate to build a fine modern hotel thereon. Macon needs a new hotel very much.

MEETING OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Their Action Gives the Colored College a Black Eye Partially.

MACON, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—The city and county jointly own about eight acres of land known as the old hospital property. The colored people of Macon and Bibb petitioned the city council and county commissioners to give them the land to offer as a site for the state colored college. The commissioners today refused to give the ground, as they have no right to grant the public property for such purposes. It is presumed that the council will take the same action.

This action possibly settles whatever hopes the colored people of Macon had of getting the college here. It is not possible that they can collect enough money to make any sort of a favorable or tempting offer. Yet the city and county may contribute and help them.

Newspaper Changes in Macon.

MACON, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Mr. T. E. Horton, the popular and very competent city editor of The Telegraph, has resigned to accept a position on The Atlanta Journal. Macon parts with him with regret. Mr. Horton is succeeded by Mr. J. R. Kennedy, a member of The Telegraph's repertorial staff. Kennedy is one of the brightest and most pushing newspaper men ever in Macon and he will make the local columns of The Telegraph very attractive and newsy.

Notes from Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—It is probable that the council at its meeting tomorrow night will take action to the establishment of a crematory in this city for the disposition of garbage. The general manager of the Eagle Crematory Company of New York is here and will appear before the council in advocacy of his patent. The sentiment is favorable to the project and it is likely arrangements will be made for a $7,000 crematory.

George W. Dillingham has been compelled by ill health to resign the directorship in the Georgia Home Insurance Company and Mr. Rhodes Brown was elected to the vacancy.

Messrs. Ware & Bohannan, of Atlanta, have secured a desirable building on Broad street and in a few days will open a large dry goods establishment.

An Editorial Wedding.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—This evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. Thomas P. Jones and Miss Ola Ransome were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. F. M. Daniel officiating. Only the relatives and near friends of the contracting parties were present.

Mr. Jones is city editor of The News and Sun, and is a young man of fine business qualifications.

The bride is the daughter of Major John C. Ransome, formerly of Atlanta, and has many friends in that city who will join her Griffin friends in wishing her much happiness. An elegant reception is being tendered them tonight by Colonel and Mrs. E. W. Hammond, at their home on Hill street.

Fires Near Guyton.

GUYTON, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Professor W. H. Cone's fine new residence, located near the Elkin's landing bridge across the Ogeeche river, in Bulloch county, accidentally caught fire Monday morning and was entirely consumed with all his household effects. He had a policy of $1,000, which covers only about one-half of his loss.

E. M. Hunter, living near Guyton, had his stable and barn burned early Monday morning, together with all his hay, fodder, shucks and one fine young mare and a valuable milch cow. This latter fire is shrouded in mystery, and was evidently the work of an incendiary.

The Frosts and the Fruit.

WAYCROSS, GA., March 3.—[Special.]—The fruit in this section is thought to have been damaged by the recent cold wave, but to what extent cannot be definitely stated as yet. It is certain, however, that the most damage was done to the peach and plum crops. The injury to pears, if any, is slight. Some damage was also done to the gardens, but not to any serious extent. Peas and cabbage, in some instances, were entirely killed, in others the injury is slight. If there is no more cold, the prospect is not at all discouraging for a large fruit and vegetable crop.

Selling Off the Square.

DAWSON, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—The county commissioners sold today seven lots off the northwest quarter of the public square for $6,200. The bidding was spirited.

The southwest quarter was not sold as expected, also a small part of the northwest quarter, on which the present courthouse stands. These will be sold hereafter.

A Death in Troup.

LAGRANGE, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Mr. R. H. Jackson, one of Troup county's most influential and respected citizens, died Monday morning, with an affection of the heart. His funeral services took place at 11 o'clock this morning, at the Methodist church in LaGrange. Mr. Jackson lived three or four miles from LaGrange, and was well known by everybody in the town.

Buried in Griffin.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—The remains of Dr. T. A. Warren, who died in Atlanta Sunday afternoon, were buried here this morning. The Masons took charge of the remains at the depot and buried him with their usual ceremony. Dr. Warren had many friends in Griffin who heard with regret of his unfortunate end.

SOME DANCE AND SOME PRAY,

And All the Ohioans Are Enjoying Their Visit to Georgia.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Eighty-five of the Ohio party arrived here at noon today, and are being royally entertained by our people.

This afternoon the entire party were driven about twelve miles over the level roads and throughout the large peach orchards of this section, and they are all a unit in saying this section reminds them more of Ohio than any place they have visited on their trip. All express themselve very favorably towards Fort Valley and their reception and entertainment at the hands of our people.

Tonight the party is divided as to enjoyment. Some are attending divine worship, some a dance at the Harris house, while others are discussing the wonderful resources of Georgia.

The party leaves tomorrow for Columbus, after which several will return here for further investigation of Houston county lands.

AN UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

Miss Rutherford's Demand to the Members of the Graduating Class.

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Miss Milliard Rutherford, of the Lucy Cobb institute, tendered an elegant dinner this afternoon, complimentary to the post graduating class of her school. The entertainment was historical and literary.

The courses were characterized of famous authors and were read from the menu to different guests to determine what to be served and the author referred to.

The menu was prepared by Miss Rutherford, and was unique and appropriate to the occasion.

The complimented young ladies were Misses Edward, of Memphis; Woodbury, of Savannah; Jandon, of Savannah; Richmond, of Atlanta; Boston, of Marietta; Barrow, of Athens; Patterson, of Macon, and Lipscomb, of Athens.

The gentlemen were Messers. Remsen Crawford, Thomas Reed, E. Ingasol Wade, Thomas Cobb, B. A. Stovall, G. C. Hamilton, Thomas Green and Rutherford Lipscomb.

Dinner lasted from 7 until 10 o'clock, and was a success in every particular. It was the most prominent social event which has been given here this season from first course which was "An English Essayist" (Lamb), "Thicken with the Contriver of a Papist Plot" (Oats), to the last feature of the menu, "Wines," which were not served: "An English Novelist" (Parder), "The first two syllables of an English dramatist" (Sheridan), and "Fictitious Distresses" (Champagne), free justice was done to the delicious viands. The entertainment will long be remembered as one of elegance and pleasure.

SAVANNAH NOTES.

The Divorce Mill Doing a Land Office Business.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Twenty-three divorces were granted in the superior court in seven hours of yesterday and today. Forty more applications will be disposed of this week. The divorce record is becoming worse with every session of the court and the prevalence of applications is provoking a discussion as to the laxity of the laws. Incompatibility of temperament is the chief cause assigned.

The advance guard of the Ohio excursionists spent today here and left tonight for Charleston. They are taking in the big towns and will rejoin the remainder of the party here next week.

THE PHOSPHATE WAR.

No Dredging to Be Done Until the Courts Decide.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The governor, comptroller general and attorney general passed through here this afternoon en route for Columbia from the scene of the phosphate war. Inspector Jones was left at the scene of hostilities, armed with power to dredge in the Coosaw territory. He went down this morning and dredged some rock.

The Coosaw people filed a protest, and there the matter rests. No legal proceedings were taken in any of the courts here today, although it is probable that when the new lessees of the territory attempt to dredge they will be served with injunctions by the Coosaw people. The Coosaw plan of campaign is evidently to refrain from dredging rock, and prevent others from doing the same until the courts decide the matter.

The Farmers' Alliance Warehouse Burned.

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The Farmers' Alliance warehouse on Augusta street, of this city, was destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock last night, together with its contents, consisting of cotton, guano, buggies, wagons, etc., which had been stored there. The fire department, owing to the miserable condition of our streets, had a hard time in reaching the scene of the fire. Several engines stuck in the mud and were extricated with great difficulty, delaying their arrival until the fire had gained such headway that the building and its contents were a mass of flames before they could be of any use.

The loss is about $12,000, and the insurance is nearly $10,000. The fact that there had been no fire in the building for several days would indicate that it must have been the work of an incendiary.

Death of Dr. Furman.

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The venerable Dr. James S. Furman died at his residence, near this city, at 6 o'clock this morning. The immediate cause of his death was heart failure. He had long been a sufferer from this, and being of a delicate physical structure, it is remarkable that he should have retained strength sufficient to continue his labors up to a few days ago.

Dr. Furman was in his eighty first year and was probably the oldest and best known minister of the Baptist denomination in this state. He had been a teacher for over forty years and a minister of the gospel for nearly sixty years. He was one of the founders of Furman university of this city and for many years its president. His life has been identified with the fortunes of the university and his influence over the lives and characters of young men cannot be estimated. The death of Dr. Furman is a great loss to this community and the Baptist church.

Chattanooga's Grist.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 3.—[Special.]—The Chattanooga Southern railroad forfeits $50,000 promised to Gadsden, Ala., if the road was built through by February 20th. Gadsden subscribers have notified the railroad company that the money is forfeited.

Pat Martin, a colored porter on the Alabama Great Southern train about 1 o'clock this morning, was knocked off by a bridge at Steele, Ala., into the creek. When taken out he was dead. The body was brought here to his home.

Postmaster Gant, of Cleveland, resigned today. An officer is checking over his books. Old age is given as the reason.

Eugene Devit, a prominent young lawyer and a police commissioner, is reported dying tonight from la grippe. He has been sick six weeks.

O'Dell Badly Hurt.

SELMA, Ala., March 3.—[Special.]—Professor L. N. O'Dell, the balloonist, barely escaped death this evening while making an ascension up town. The balloon was not inflated enough and dropped him in a tree. He fell thirty-five feet, clinging to the parachute. His back struck first on a corner of the bridge, knocking him senseless. Concussion of the brain was the result. He was picked up and carried home.

O'Dell broke his leg in a similar descent a few months ago in this city. It was announced he would jump off of the river bridge here, a distance of sixty-five feet, tomorrow, but he won't now.

The proposed journal will be a monthly or semi-monthly, and will be published in Atlanta or Chattanooga. A well-known newspaper writer of this city has been asked to edit the new periodical, which will probably appear about the first of next month.

MRS. A. E. M'KINLEY DEAD.

The Lady Dies Very Suddenly at Her Home Yesterday Morning.

Mrs. Anne Eliza McKinley, widow of Hon. Ebenezer McKinley, died very suddenly yesterday morning at her residence, 232 West Peachtree street, at the ripe age of seventy-eight years.

Mrs. McKinley was born in Brunswick county, Virginia, July 10, 1813. Her parents were Susan McAclin and Jesse Reid. Her father was a brave officer in the last English war and a devoted patriot and statesman. While considered one of the most beautiful women in her native state, Mrs. McKinley was also noted for her many Christian virtues and for her most exemplary domestic life. Her home was her kingdom, and there she reigned with wisdom and with love. She was a devoted wife and mother and a woman of whom it may be truly said "the world is better for her having lived."

During the late war between the north and south Mrs. McKinley, prompted by patriotic impulses, established at Newnan and sustained at her own expense a hospital for sick and wounded confederate soldiers, and many are those today who, in remembrance of her motherly attentions, will bless her name and revere her memory.

Mrs. McKinley leaves two sons, Nathaniel and Joseph E., and three daughters, Mrs. Frances Scales, Mrs. Salonel Bussey and Miss Junia McKinley, and one grandchild, Miss Estelle Whelan, to mourn her sudden death. Her friends were numerous, and those who knew her best appreciated her most.

The funeral will occur this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from her late residence, to which the friends and acquaintances are invited. Interment at Oakland cemetery.

The following gentlemen are requested to act as pallbearers:

Mr. C. S. Kingsberry, Mr. J. C. Kirkpatrick, Mr. J. D. Hightower, Major W. F. Slaton, Mr. Austin Green, Mr. A. W. Walds, Mr. W. H. Harwell, Mr. Thomas Hughes, Hon. W. H. Venable, Mr. Robert Clarke, Professor Henry Mitchell and Mr. Walter Porter.

THEY'RE AFTER HIM.

The Southern Alliance Farmer Talks Out About Secretary Burks.

The Southern Alliance Farmer, of this week, has some very interesting matter.

Rather a sensational article is printed in reference to Secretary Burks.

Information has reached our ears, it reads, of a new and startling danger that threatens the very existence of the alliance of Georgia; but, fortunately, there is time enough left to avert the evil, if our brethren will only exert their power and determined courage. All the machinery of the state alliance is in the hands of the secretary, and, if the reports that reach us are true, he has gone to work and attempted to manipulate the delegation to the next state convention in the interest of his friends. Within the last few days information has reached us from a number of counties that their delegates are opposed to the true principles of our order, and will come to Atlanta next August prepared to overturn and destroy the entire structure of our state alliance—drive your old and tried friends from power, and place you under the rule and domination of your old enemies, and of the men who are now conspiring against you. The alliance of Georgia was never in such peril as it is today. Secretary Burks's work has been done secretly, and, we learn, thoroughly. You were not looking for an attack from the enemy in that direction, and so he quietly worked county by county—and we now very much fear he has captured a majority of your delegates to the August convention.

But there is not a day to be lost. Call at once your county alliance together, and let the woolhat boys rally to a man, and thus present a force and a front before which traitors and tyrants will tremble. Then bring your delegate before this body, tell him plainly what you want him to do and make him then and there commit himself in black and white; and then, if you have the slightest doubts as to his loyalty, require his resignation, and elect a man in his place on whom you can implicitly rely. If the delegate refuses to surrender his commission, it should be torn from his hands, if it involved the country in civil war. Our forefathers of 1776 did not take up arms in a noblee cause, or against greater oppositions and tyranny, than the cause for which alliancemen are today battling for.

* * * * No one save Secretary Burks knows who are the delegates to our state convention, and how they stand. He still retains his office, and has you in his power. But by inquiries among the brethren who v[illegible] at our office, we learn that a decided majority of [illegible]e delegates to our next state convention were G[illegible]don symphathizers in the senatorial contest, an[illegible] applaud the men who participated in that executive mansion caucus.

In another part of the paper is a card from Secretary Burks, in which he says:

"It will not seem very strange why Mr. Harry C. Brown chimes in with the few who are asking me to resign, when it is known that he is the only avowed candidate for the secretaryship."

In answer to this part of the card Mr. Brown replies:

The card of Secretary Burks was received at this office, and the reply written in my absence. I regret that even those who seek to do me harm should think I am a candidate for their office. I am not and never have been, and do not expect to be a candidate for the office of secretary of the State Alliance of Georgia. I do not want any office in the alliance, and feel that I am serving the order better in my present work than I could elsewhere. The party who told Brother Burks that I was a candidate for the office which he holds, certainly desired to feed his prejudice toward me. The folly of office seeking is not one of my weaknesses. H. C. BROWN.

In the "Editorial Grape-Shot" column this paragraph is found:

There are 80,000 alliancemen now in Georgia reaching out for Secretary Burks's scalp, and demand of President Livingston that he present this little token to them.

THIS IS EMMET'S DAY.

It Will Be Duly Observed By the Irish Residents.

This is Emmet's Day.

The Irishmen of Atlanta will observe the anniversary with appropriate exercises in honor of the Irish patriot.

It was 113 years ago today that Robert Emmet was born.

The exercises here will be under the auspices of the Emmet Club. A number of speeches and recitations are to be made. One interesting feature will be the recitation in Irish, by Mr. P. G. Keeny, of Emmet's speech to the jury that convicted him.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The Atlanta Woman's Christian Temperance Union (old union) will hold an important business meeting, Thursday, March 5th, in the pastor's study of the First Baptist church. Reports of officers and superintendents. Important announcements. Visitors always welcome.

When this funny production visited Porcopolis, The Cincinnati Enquirer thus appreciated this comedy:

"J. C. Stewart, as Professor Baton, was inimitable—always natural, never overdrawn, and, though placed in the most ridiculous positions, always comes up smiling and ready for the next round.

The Faults and Follies of the Age

Are numerous, but of the latter none is more ridiculous than the promiscuous and random use of laxative pills and other drastic cathartics. These wrench, convulse and weaken both the stomach and the bowels. If Hostetter's Stomach Bitters be used instead of these no-remedies, the result is accomplished without pain and with great benefit to the bowels, the stomach and the liver. Use this remedy when constipation manifests itself, and thereby prevent it from becoming chronic.

A Scrofulous Boy.

Running Sores Covered His Body and Head. Bones Affected. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

When six months old, the left hand of our little grandchild began to swell, and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure, it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula, of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using all freely. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child.

PUBLIC SAFETY DEMANDS

That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It cannot, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-approved remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, and the iodides. The process of manufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not boiled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a decoction; but it is a compound extract, obtained by a method exclusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diuretics known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sarsaparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all diseases of the blood. Lowell druggists unite in testifying to the superior excellence of this medicine and to its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

LACK OF INTEREST IN THE CAR SERVICE ASSOCIATION.

Board of Control of the Union Depot Organizes with Captain E. L. Taylor as President—Other News.

Interest in the newly-formed Local Freight Agents' Association does not seem to materialize very rapidly among the general managers and general freight agents of the roads represented in the association.

About two weeks ago a set of car-service rules were adopted at a meeting of the association and were sent in printed circular form to the heads of the roads for approval.

When they all signify their assent to the rules they will be formally adopted and a general car-service agent will be appointed to enforce them. This plan has been pursued with great success in Chicago, Memphis, Chattanooga, Birmingham and other cities. Furthermore, the Atlanta agents, in making up these rules, have had the mistakes of the other associations before them to profit by. A meeting of the association was called for Monday evening, but so few answers had been received from their superiors on the question that the local agents simply had no questions to consider or act on, and adjourned. They are not at all disappointed, however, but say the managers, all of whom are rushed with business, will act on the matter in due time.

As was stated recently in THE CONSTITUTION General Manager Tyler, of the New Orleans Short Line and custodian of the depot, voluntarily resigned the custody of the depot, being subsequently given to a board of control, consisting of the general managers of the roads having ownership therein or their representatives. The board has met and oganized and elected Captain Tyler president. It is composed of Captain Tyler, General Passenger Agent Harman, of the Western and Atlantic; Superintendent Hammond, of the Atlanta and Charlotte division of the Richmond and Danville; Local Agent Werner, of the Georgia and Superintendent Dill, of the Central. Permission was formally granted to the East Tennesseee road to enter the union depot on terms to be made by the board or the general managers distinct from the board.

Atlanta will have a connection with Chicago over the elegant Chicago and Nashville limited train recently put on by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road between Chicago and Nashville. According to a traffic arrangement with the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road, the passengers bound to Chicago leave here on the Western and Atlantic at 7:50 o'clock a.m., connecting at Nashville at 7 o'clock p. m. for Chicago, arriving there at 10:45 o'clock a. m. Returning, the traveler leaves Chicago at 4:15 o'clock p. m., connecting at Nashville at 7:30 o'clock a. m. for Atlanta, arriving here at 6:40 o'clock p. m. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois road, in advertising its progressive enterprise, has this to say of the south:

The north looks toward the south now with smiling eyes. Lately it has become practically attractive as the place of wealth, traffic and opportunity; as the new El Dorado of all enterprise and industry. From a saunterer's paradise it has become a tremendous new agricultural and mercantile empire. Capital is flowing there, immigration swarming there. A thousand northern syndicates are capitalizing its interests, opening its mines, building its cities. So the northern world looks upon the south with smiling eyes because it sees good land and a good living there for millions of farmers and settlers, and the setting of travel southward has become a tide, such as free gold and free farms never drew toward the west when the west was young and shining in her fame.

The Pintsch Gas Company is erecting plants for the manufacture of its gas at Savannah and Chattanooga. The former will be completed by April 1st, and the latter by May 1st. They are in every respect similar to the one now in successful operation here. When the Chattanooga plant is ready for operation, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road will, in all probability, adopt the plan, if not on its whole system, at least on that portion of it between Nashville and Atlanta.

The annual spring meeting of the Railway Freight Claim Association of the eastern, western and southern states will be held in this city tomorrow. This is a very important organization, and will naturally be called upon to discuss questions having reference to matters requiring not only railway experience but legal knowledge. Frequent conferences by the claim agents of the various railways of the country cannot fail to result in mutual benefit, and ought to point out a way whereby not only claimants will be made secure in all that is justly due them, but that railway companies will be able to reduce their expenditures on this account to the basis of justice to all concerned.

A bill has passed the Alabama legislature which appoints a commission composed of Hon. Thomas Seay, Hon. John T. Milner and Hon. R. T. Simpson to have a survey made for a railroad from the Tennessee river through west Alabama to Mobile. The object is to induce capitalists to undertake the construction of the road, and $9,000 are appropriated for the survey.

The veteran Judge Perino Brown, for years car accountant of the Western and Atlantic railroad, and lately transferred to the Nashville and Chattanooga road, has resigned his position and will remove to Atlanta. Judge Brown's successor as car accountant is Joseph Deering, a bright young man, who left the Nashville and Chattanooga road's employ about a year ago to accept a clerical position with a Chattanooga firm.

The gross earnings of the Louisville and Nashville road, for the third week in February, were $373,545, a decrease from the corresponding period a year ago of $8,255.

A Handsome Cane.

Monday evening, a number of the members of The Journal staff called upon Mr. Josiah Carter, ex-managing editor of that paper, at his residence in Inman park. During the evening, Mr. Alex W. Bealer, on behalf of his associates, presented Mr. Carter with a beautiful gold-headed cane. Mr. Bealer's speech was a happy one, and Mr. Carter's, in accepting the gift, was equally so. On the head is engraved: "To Josiah Carter, from your fellow workers on The Journal, March 2, 1891.

Have You? Many Millions Have

accepted James Pyle's invitation to try his wonderful discovery, Pyle's Pearline; for easy washing and cleaning. You couldn't count them in a lifetime. Some of the twelve million housekeepers in this land must have accepted very often. That's the way with Pearline. The wise woman who investigates, tries it; the woman who tries it continues to use it. A daily increasing sale proves it. The truth is, there's nothing so acceptable as Pearline. Once accept its help, and you'll decline the imitations—they don't help you. It washes clothes or cleans house. It saves labor and it saves wear. It hurts nothing, but it's suited to everything. Try it when it suits you, for it will suit you when you try it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 175 JAMES PYLE, New York.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 4, 1891.

Wanted—$1,000 in Atlanta's Name.

We present elsewhere on this page a communication which should be considered with substantial interest by the business men of Atlanta.

It suggests that Atlanta, having as yet taken no steps to show its appreciation of having one of the finest cruisers in the navy named for her, should take advantage of the arrival of "The Atlanta" in Pensacola harbor next week to make some suitable presentation in acknowledgment of the compliment.

The "Chicago," "Boston," "Baltimore," and several others of the magnificent men-of-war built within the past few years, and named in honor of the leading cities of the country, each carry with them beautiful and costly testimonials from the respective cities for which they are named, Philadelphia having given her namesake a $16,000 present.

The secretary of the navy, and others specially deputized by congress, will go to Pensacola next week to witness the drill of the "White Squadron."

Now is Atlanta's chance to get up a handsome present, and to do the square thing by her beautiful namesake.

Atlanta has never failed in her duty, and has never hesitated to come up to public expectation in any particular. It will never do for her to fall behind in this instance.

THE CONSTITUTION therefore takes it upon itself to call for $1,000 with which to purchase something for the city's namesake. The details can be arranged in short order, the purchase can be made and the present can be put in the hands of an Atlanta committee in plenty of time to reach Pensacola by the middle of next week.

Then the presentation.

We want $1,000 between now and next Sunday.

We want to announce in tomorrow's paper that the greater part of it has been raised.

We therefore ask the assistance of Mr. Thomas Peters, Mr. J. C. Freeman and Colonel A. J. McBride as a committee to assist us in the matter, and ask that they meet in THE CONSTITUTION'S editorial rooms this morning at 10 o'clock.

The public may be prepared for a good starter for tomorrow morning. Let every Atlantian do his duty, and such as are willing to contribute to the fund can do so by either sending or telephoning THE CONSTITUTION.

We will take pleasure in publishing the names of contributors.

Forty contributors at $25 each will settle the matter. As this is being written three of the forty are authorized.

Our Representatives Abroad.

Since the day when these United States were represented abroad by the Franklins and the Adamses, there has been a sad deterioration in the quality of American diplomatic timber when it has became possible for Henry W. Blair to be entrusted with the Chinese embassy.

In the earlier days of the republic when patriotism, and not partisanship, obtained, even greater care was taken in appointments for the foreign service than in the selections for cabinet portfolios. It was felt that the best statesmanship of the country should be sent to the great courts; and to this fact is due the high place which the United States soon occupied in the diplomatic world.

Even at the close of the war, when the country was filled with noisy place hunters, only such men as Reverdy Johnson and Charles Francis Adams were selected for foreign missions. The first decided break from this custom was the appointment of Robert C. Schenck to the court of St. James, whose only record is that of having been a successful poker player.

The rapid extension of the telegraphic service made it possible for the government to depart from the policy of sending trained statesmen abroad, in the interest of eminent men of letters such as J. Lathrop Motley, J. Russell Lowell and J. C. C. Bancroft. What these men lacked in practical statesmanship could be supplied by telegraphic instructions, while their salaries and the advantages accruing to their positions enabled them to prosecute their literary work. It was a change which met with approval so long as the personal tone of the service was kept at its previous high standard.

It has been reserved for President Harrison, however, to violate every precedent, and to send abroad such an army of incapables, deadbeats and cranks as never before represented the American flag. Robert T. Lincoln and Frederick T. Grant, to London and Vienna respectively, represent nothing but the names of their ancestors, and in case of trouble would have to be replaced by other men. Pat Egan, holding the responsible Chilian post, does so as a direct reward for corrupt party service, and is despised by the very element in compliment to whom it is alleged that he was appointed. But indiscreet as was the appointment of Lincoln and Grant; criminal as was that of Egan, the height of criminality and folly was reached when such a man as Henry W. Blair was given the Chinese mission. It is criminal, because in the vexed state of affairs between the two countries, he is crank enough to challenge combat; it is foolish because during his senatorial service he was a butt of ridicule on both sides of the chamber.

From Adams and Franklin; from Motley and Lowell——

To Lincoln and Grant, and Egan and Blair!

A Law-Abiding City.

The arrest, identification and imprisonment of the negro who recently made a murderous assault on a white woman in the streets of Atlanta speak well for the most thoroughly organized and efficient police force in the south. The negro had covered up his tracks well; but it was impossible for him to escape. The crime he had committed stimulated pursuit, and he would have been tracked through the states by his determined and relentless captors.

But it has a greater meaning still, for the fact that a negro, charged with a crime as grave as this—the gravest of all crimes—is now awaiting his trial in the courts, secure from the violence of a justly incensed and outraged community, means that Atlanta is pre-eminently a law-abiding city.

In almost any part of the country a crime like this would have been speedily avenged. It had no extenuating circumstances. A black brute, hidden in the darkness, sprang upon a respectable, unprotected woman and drew his murderous knife across her throat, and was only prevented from killing her by her screams, which summoned assistance. He deserved no better than the death of a brute then and there.

But the law will be allowed to take its course and the criminal is under its protection. Atlanta sets an example for the state in this, as in all things—an example which reflects credit upon her citizens, and which will not be without a wholesome effect.

The General Court Bill.

The passage of the general court bill, which adds seventeen judges to the federal judiciary, comes just in time to enable President Harrison to reward some of his henchmen, now out of a job, with life positions.

The bill, which is the only legacy left to the country by Senator Evarts, provides for the appointment in each circuit of an additional circuit judge, and creates in each circuit a circuit court of appeals, to consist of three judges, of whom two shall constitute a quorum. This court shall have final jurisdiction in some classes of cases on which appeals are now allowed to the United States supreme court. In case there is not a quorum of circuit judges and justices of the supreme court at the sessions of any circuit court of appeals, one or more of the district judges within the circuit is made competent to sit in the court. But no judge is to sit in a case which he has heretofore passed upon. Each of these circuit courts is to have a marshal, clerk and other necessary court officers. A term of one of the several courts of appeals is required to be held annually in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco, and such other places as may be designated by the courts.

Under this organization, appeals from the judgment of district courts or from the existing circuit courts may be taken directly to the supreme court in the following cases only: Where the jurisdiction of the court is in issue, from final sentences and decrees in prize causes, upon conviction of a capital or infamous crime, where the construction or application of the constitution of the United States is involved, where the constitutionality of any federal law or he validity or construction of any treaty is drawn in question, or where a state constitution or law is held to be in contravention of the federal constitution. Appeals may also be taken from the judgment of state supreme courts. The judgment of the circuit court of appeals, established by the bill, is to be final in all cases in which the jurisdiction is dependent entirely upon the opposite parties to the suit being aliens and citizens of the United States, or citizens of different states; in cases arising under the patent laws, the revenue laws and the criminal laws, and in admiralty cases, except that the courts of appeal may certify to the supreme court any questions on which they desire instruction.

The claim is made that these appellate courts will reduce the volume of business which now clogs the supreme court.

Was the Cleveland Letter Inopportune?

Mr. Watterson says that Mr. Cleveland's anti-silver letter was inopportune. Yet it would be difficult to explain why it was inopportune. The difficulty is so great that we do not believe Mr. Watterson himself can explain it.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Cleveland's letter was very timely. His position had been misrepresented. Senator Vest and others had seized hold and made the most of rumors to the effect that Mr. Cleveland had modified his silver views to conform to democratic ideas, and there was great anxiety on the part of the public to know the real attitude of the man who was most prominent as as a candidate for the democratic nomination.

At this juncture—when the silver question seemed to have taken its firmest hold of the public mind, Mr. Cleveland's letter was written. That it was disappointing there can be no doubt, but we do not see how Mr. Watterson or anybody else can call it inopportune. It was, in fact, the most opportune document ever thrust on the public. It served a timely notice on democrats to the effect that if they intended to stick to their principles they would have to look elsewhere for a candidate.

The inopportuneness of the letter is altogether in Mr. Watterson's mind. He would have had Mr. Cleveland to act as an ordinary politician and dissemble his views in order to win popularity. But the day for this sort of thing is past. A public man cannot afford to deceive the people. Mr. Cleveland's letter would have been inopportune if he had written it just before the democratic convention, or after his nomination as the democratic candidate. But he has made no delay. He has deceived nobody. He has put all the democrats of the country on notice that he is not in favor of the democratic principle of the free coinage of silver—or, as the democratic platform of 1884 puts it, "gold and silver, the money of the constitution."

We think that Mr. Cleveland's letter was most opportune. He has, in so many words, informed the democratic party that he cannot be its candidate, but his courage and his candor have not lost him any friends. He cannot be the democratic candidate, but democrats can say that he is a man who is superior to the arts of the ordinary politician. And surely, in these times, that is something. It is, in fact, a distinction.

If Mr. Watterson will reflect a little, he will perceive that Mr. Cleveland's letter is the most opportune that has recently been written by a public man. He preserves his own integrity, and saves the democratic party from committing a most disastrous blunder.

The State Encampment.

We regret to see the military advisory board being criticised for its action in the matter of the location of the state encampment. It is natural that the places that failed to get the encampment should be disgruntled, but it is not good for the military of the state to have a discussion of such a nature as has followed the recent action of the board. There are some features of this criticism that we fear will affect the encampment, and injure the military of the state. This is the only phase of the question that interests us, for, as we have before said, we have but the kindest feeling for Macon and always are glad to rejoice at its success in any particular.

We think that the military board has laid itself liable to some criticism, though we feel sure that it did what it thought best in the premises. It should promptly remove all grounds for just complaint, however.

It has been observed that the board has been intensely secret in its proceedings. This was unwise. The people are the only party interested, while the board seems to have proceeded on the basis that only the bidders were interested. Even up to the present time nothing has been definitely or officially known as to what the board did about the location of the encampment, and yet it has adjourned subject to call. The whole matter seems to be involved in the deepest mystery. One of the board admits over his own name that he was authorized by a certain bidder to do a certain thing, and other members, according to current reports, were authorized to accept certain conditions under certain circumstances.

In the first place, none of the members of the board had any right to act in any capacity except as officers of the state, and if they wanted to represent any locality, they should, by all means, have resigned, and done so in an unofficial way. There appears to be strong ground for the argument that members directly interested in the location of the encampment should not have voted on the question.

The bill making the appropriation for this encampment passed by a close vote, having before been killed several times in former legislatures. We think the appropriation a wise one, and are anxious to see it continued. To this end we will do all we can, but we dislike very much to see the matter handicapped, as it has been, by the board, for it may mean serious trouble when the question of the continuance of the appropriation comes up.

The state's action in the matter has been open and above board, and without any secrecy or whispering. The board's action should have been likewise.

It is a hard matter to comment on what the board has done, because, to be perfectly frank, it is hard to say just what it has done. We have endeavored to find out for the public, but know absolutely nothing from an official stand point. And yet the board has decided the matter, broken up, and gone home.

This mysterious and secret work is calculated to throw a cloud over the decision of the board and to create dissension. If the commission was not prepared to announce a decision and wanted time to investigate, there would have been no objection to its postponing its decision, but the result of its work has been given out in a semi-official way, and all the public knows about it is that the whole thing is involved in mystery.

WITH A MOUTH for dirt, Mr. Joseph Cannon seems also to have a head for figures.

SOME OF our democratic friends seem inclined to complain because the republicans have created a deficiency. Doesn't this sort of thing help the democratic cause?

WHAT THE democrats want next time is a president who will make a clean sweep of the republicans in the departments. The democratic party cannot be successfully run by republicans.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, is within the bounds of civilization, but the hippocket gets in its work there with more profusion than it does in the barbarous south. Those who want to see deeds of daring-do and observe the red results of northern knighthood and chivalry should take the first train to Columbus, O. If the railroads have not made excursion rates they have missed a very fine opportunity.

DEFEATED POLITICIANS are soon forgotten. But for his notorious bill, McKinley would not be heard of now. Ingalls is drifting into oblivion; Reed will soon be an uncertain memory, and Harrison is already dead, though the funeral services have been postponed until 1892.

WHY DIDN'T the president send Editor Shepard on the Chinese mission? He would have made a fat, though indigestible morsel, for the godless heathen.

IF THE poets of the west are fairly represented in the extracts given in West Shore, we do not wonder at the statement that the work of civilization has not attained perfection in that prolific country.

BY ALL means let the people erect a monument to perpetuate the memory of the late Secretary Windom. He was an honest republican official!

IT WOULD seem that the mission of the republican party has been accomplished. There is not enough money in the treasury to jingle.

THE CANADIAN season has opened, but they are catching the bank cashiers on the run.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR, who recently married Miss Willing, of Philadelphia, gave Dr. McVickar $10,000 as a fee. Three days later he quarreled with a Richmond hackdriver about the charge for an hour's drive. It was a case of nature reasserting itself.

THE FAITH-CURE people of Jersey City are now rejoicing over the alleged cure of Mrs. Burnham. The lady was knocked down on the pavement by a runaway horse and crushed beneath the hoofs of the animal. When a doctor reached her side she said her chest and sides felt as if they had been crushed in, and the doctor concluded that she had been injured internally. He said that her spine had been strained and possibly broken, and that within twenty-four hours paralysis might set in. "Have I got my senses?" asked the patient, feebly. "Yes." "Well, I want no physician but the Great Physician. I am confident that I was struck down to be healed by faith that others might be brought to believe through my cure." "If you die," said the doctor, on leaving the house, "I shall not hold myself responsible. If you live you cannot leave your bed for weeks and perhaps not for months." This was five weeks ago. Without the aid of physicians, and relying upon the power of prayer, Mrs. Burnham is now well.

The fish liar is abroad.—Exchange.

Keep him there. Don't let him get within ten miles of Georgia.

The Flowery Branch Journal has been enlarged to a six column paper and has been otherwise improved. It is a first-class weekly newspaper and the people should show their appreciation of the improvement by an increased patronage.

Editor Branham, of The Tribune of Rome, is in the city. He is very much interested in the Georgia school system, especially in Floyd county, where it is not working to the satisfaction of the people.

The Brunswick poets have taken Sam Whitmire by storm. He should submit all his poetry to Business Manager Webster and let it go in at regular rates.

Mr. O. W. Wilder, one of the editors of The Pulaski Recorder, was in the city yesterday. He was here to purchase a new outfit for his job department.

Here is an item attributed to the Fannin county paper which would do credit to The Billville Banner:

The Gazette is a day late this week and it is useless for us to offer any apologies for everybody in town knows that we got in a jug of "wild-cat" Tuesday on subscription and editor and "devil" both got on a "razee," the latter painting the town red and skipping for parts unknown. It's all gone now and if we can get a new "devil" will be on time next week.

Mr. Emmet Houser, late of The Fort Valley Enterprise, is in the city. He is a good newspaper man and has done first-class work on The Enterprise.

Atlanta's Namesake.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: On the occasion of a visit to Pensacola last week the town was all astir with the naval drill which is soon to take place. The Chicago, Dolphin and Yorktown, of the White squadron, were already anchored off Fort St. Philip, and the Atlanta and Boston were expected. The secretary of the navy and others specially deputized by congress will be there to witness the drill.

My purpose is to urge on you to earnestly suggest action on the part of our citizens to place on board the man-of-war Atlanta, which is to bear the name of our city to all parts of this American coast and to foreign lands, some suitable token of the appreciation we have for the compliment bestowed by naming this grand vessel for our enterprising city

The Fertilizer Inspection Law.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT, ATLANTA, March 3.—Editor Constitution: I have had many inquiries from farmers in different sections of the state, asking for information in regard to the law relating to the inspection of fertilizers, passed by the recent legislature, and known as the Ellington law. Permit me through the columns of your widely read paper to answer these questions and to state a few facts which are of interest and value to the farmers, generally.

Under the Ellington law, now in force, the farmer can, if he chooses, require the seller to draw samples in the presence of witnesses, place the same in bottles with the manufacturer's guaranteed analysis on the label, seal the bottles securely and place them in charge of the ordinary. If, after testing the fertilizer, the farmer has reason to suspect that the qualities are not such as he was led to believe, he can have the sample bottles, which were left with the ordinary, sent to the state chemist, and his official analysis will be accepted as evidence in any court in the state. Under this law, the inspections made by the department, which are as thorough as we can make them with the force now at our command, the sharp competition existing among the various manufacturers of these goods and the close margins, the farmer has a fair chance for that protection, which he needs. And in this connection I would say to the farmers, in whose ranks I have struggled for nearly thirty years, that I have made it a point to examine very closely the system under which these goods are prepared. I have visited several large manufactories, and, in person, inspected the methods of preparation, and I must say that the quality of the various ingredients used in the composition of these goods, the thorough manner in which they are manipulated and mixed, the condition they present when ready for shipment, all impressed me most favorably.

Let the farmers understand, however, that to secure the protection which the framers of the Ellington law have intended, they must comply with the conditions to which I have above called their attention. Let them lessen the acreage, prepare the land deeply and thoroughly, increase the amount of fertilizer, either in composts or the commercial brands, cultivate rapidly and systematically and the results will, I trust, bring gladness and sunshine to our homes. Respectfully,

R. T. NESBITT, Commissioner.

The People's Paper.

From The Augusta Evening News.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION of yesterday made the most important announcement for a long time when it stated that the daily would be furnished in future for $6, the Sunday paper for $2, and the daily and Sunday CONSTITUTION together for $8 per annum. This will make THE CONSTITUTION more than ever the people's paper, and the best sign of prosperity is that THE CONSTITUTION can afford to make this reduction.

Yes, this is a step in the right direction. The people have a right to the best papers at the lowest prices, and THE CONSTITUTION is still in the lead among morning papers, just as The Evening News has always been the popular leader in style and prices among the afternoon papers of the south.

Reed the Rulemaker.

From The Philadelphia Telegraph.

He has now had his trial at rule making, and has enjoyed a latitude no man before him ever had, and a calm and sober review of the congress will show it to have been one of the greatest failures in the matter of serving the public interest that has gone into the record of history. In packing up his goods and chattels Mr. Reed will probably stow away in some safe corner various essays on "General Parliamentary Law: Its Flexibility, etc.;" "Parliamentary Reform: Its Progress and Failure, with foot notes and comments by Messrs. Rogers, Mills, Springer, McMillin, Bynum, Breckinridge and other distinguished authorities."

A RAILROAD DEAL.

THE L. AND N. WANTS THE ATLANTA AND FLORIDA,

And Only the Question of Money Stands in the Way—Interesting Developments Looked For.

Is the Atlanta and Florida about to sell out?

One would naturally say yes to that question, judging from the numerous meetings and consultations that have, within the past few days, been held by parties interested in that road.

It is rumored that the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road, or more properly speaking, the Louisville and Nashville, is likely to acquire control of the Atlanta and Florida.

On Friday last President Thomas was in the city. He and President Maddox, of the Atlanta and Florida, had a long consultation together "behind closed doors." It was afterward learned that Colonel Maddox submitted three or four propositions to Colonel Thomas, but the latter, in reply, said he was not in a position to give a definite answer.

Monday morning the directors of the Georgia Improvement Company, a corporation holding a controling interest in the Atlanta and Florida, held a meeting.

Knowing that Mr. J. Carroll Payne, a stockholder and director in the improvement company, was present at the meeting, a CONSTITUTION reporter asked him if any definite action had been taken. He replied in the negative.

"Was anything said about the propositions submitted recently by Colonel Maddox to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis?"

"Yes," he said, "they were informally considered by us, and all were rejected."

The stockholders of the improvement company held a meeting yesterday at noon, but it was kept pretty quiet. Those in attendance were as mum as could be, but no denial was made of the report that a deal was on foot.

The Louisville and Nashville would make a big stroke by buying this road. It runs to Fort Valley. Between here and Waycross several small lumber roads are in course of construction, which could be bought up, and, with a few additional miles constructed, would give the Louisville and Nashville people a line from Fort Valley to Waycross. Or, perhaps it would be almost as cheap to build clear through from Fort Valley to Waycross. At the latter place connection would be made with the Plant system for southeastern points. Or, if a completely independent line to the sea were desired, the extension could be made from Waycross to Brunswick.

The directors of the Atlanta and Florida say they will sell out if they can get a satisfactory offer. The road is in good condition and at present is doing a heavier cotton business than any other road that enters Atlanta. People along the line of road are well pleased with it and those who live in the territory through which the road would have to be extended to reach the sea are clamorous for such a move and offer to give a right of way and donate lands for the purpose. Brunswick also offers great inducements in the way of terminal facilities.

Keep your eye on the two roads. The big one is after the little one, and interesting developments may be looked for before the week is out.

GENERAL GEORGIA NEWS.

——Between $2,000 and $3,000 will be distributed in Wilkes county to widows of confederate soldiers.

——Mr. Josiah McCord captured a large king snake on the streets of Covington last week. It has been sent to the museum of the state agricultural department of Michigan.

——Steady, industrious men can find plenty of work in Emerson, as there is a scarcity of hands there. The Western and Atlantic railroad section boss wants ten men to reside there. Men are wanted at the iron banks, also on adjacent farms.

——The Covington Star is advocating the repeal of the Newton county registration law. It says that it is only an expense and burden to the people. The cost of registration is, ordinarily, about $1.50, while the benefit derived from it amounts to comparatively nothing.

——Emerson Herald: We would like to see Andy Stewart, tax collector of Fulton county, and Colonel C. M. Jones, of our town, sit down and tell jokes. As whole-souled, good-natured, all-around good fellows, we will match this pair against any pair in the state.

——The Savannah Tribune, organ of the colored people, is opposed to a "colored" exhibit at the world's fair. The Tribune says:

Some colored men want a colored department at the world's fair in 1893. The colored people want nothing of the kind, as it would place them at a disadvantage to attempt to show their progress considering the many inconveniences they labor under. The proposed separate department is but another form of agitating the so-called race question. The race is not prepared financially to put itself on exhibition.

——The American Recorder says that the eastbound Savannah, Americus and Montgomery passenger train was recently held up by a lone woman. The train left the depot on time, and had reached a distance of 200 yards from it, when a negro woman was seen frantically running after it. The conductor saw her, pulled the bell, and the train came to a stop. A colored brakeman stood on the steps and reached his hand out to help the woman on. But she ran on by, and a negro boy hung himself out of the window and kissed her. The conductor was naturally a little wrathy, and told her so. She told him that her boy was going off, and they didn't give her time to tell him goodby, and she had to do it if she would have to follow the train ten miles.

——The Emerson Herald says that the surveyors are in the woods and fields of Bartow county comparatively as thick as sinners at one of Sam Jones's big meetings. Look out for railroad news in the near future that will make old croakers grunt.

——Mr. M. I. Welch, of Cordele, is an inventive genius. His inventions are numerous, the last being a railway railbreak, which he thinks will eclipse all former inventions in that line.

——The Brunswick Times chronicles it as a remarkable fact that the blackest man in Glynn county is named White, and the whitest man is named Brown, the tallest man is named Lowe, and the largest man is named Small.

——The citizens of Leesburg will build a new academy. Other improvements are also spoken of for the town.

PEOPLE OF NOTE.

BROWN.—Jason Brown, second son of the old abolitionist, whose "soul is marching on," recently came east from California, where he has lived for the past six years, and is visiting at York, Pa., not very far from Harper's Ferry. He is now sixty-eight years old, and lectures a good deal on temperance.

ASTOR.—Most of the Astor family have been college-bred men. The elder, John Jacob, graduated at Columbia in 1839; William received his degree from the same institution in 1849; William Waldorf is also a Columbia man, of the class of 1875; John Jacob, Jr., was at Harvard as a special student for three years. But none of the Astor money has ever gone for educational endowments.

COCKERILL.—Mrs. John A. Cockerill, wife of The New York World's well-known editor, was severely injured on Friday by being thrown from the step of a Fifth avenue stage, the horses having started before she had fairly alighted. Her left leg was broken between the knee and ankle.

PHELPS.—Judge Charles H. Phelps, who has presided on the district court bench for many years in Burlington, Ia., died the other day of pneumonia after a brief illness. He was a brother of Edward J. Phelps, minister to England under President Cleveland, and was sixty-seven years of age. Judge Phelps was the first man in America to read the telegraph instrument by sound.

THE MILITARY MATTER.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE HELD WITH GOVERNOR NORTHEN.

The Protests to Be Presented in Writing Probably Today—The Adjutant General Talks About It.

The delegation of gentlemen who called upon Governor Northen Tuesday night had another conference with him yesterday.

They professed to be very much encouraged by the governor's statements, and determined to prevent the encampment going to Macon.

It seems that the final disposition of the matter will depend largely upon the construction accepted of the law defining the governor's authority in the matter

The protests, it was agreed yesterday, are to be directed to the governor, and not to the advisory board.

"The governor of the state," said Captain Seay yesterday, "is the commander-in-chief of the state's militia—the final authority in such matters. The law gives him a veto power by requiring that the minutes of the board shall be approved by him. We have asked him to prevent a final settlement of the matter until our protests can be laid before him, and he promised that he would do so, and that we should all be given a hearing."

The kick, it seems, is not confined to the towns that submitted bids.

"We are all going to take a hand in that," said Colonel Tom Lyons yesterday. "This protest will be seconded by every town and section of the state, except Macon. North Georgia is solid against it. It's an outrage and we are not going to submit to it. We are not fighting Macon—no objection in the world to it's going there if it went there fairly—but we are going to protest against the way they got it."

Captain Kell, the adjutant general, believes that the board has entire control of the matter.

"The governor," he said yesterday, in reply to the question, "can call the board together to advise and consult with them; but when it comes to saying where the encampment shall be located I don't think he has a voice in it.

"As I understand the matter, any effort at reconsideration must originate with the board, and no such motion has yet been made."

The result of the conference here yesterday was to agree upon the general nature of the protests to be filed.

They are to be submitted to the governor as soon as practicable.

THE TRIBUNE-OF-ROME.

The Tribune of yesterday says:

It is deplorable that there should exist any division or be any discussion in regard to the decision, for under the existing circumstances it is not surprising that Macon was settled upon. That city had two of its citizens upon the board, and naturally they would, being true citizens, desire to see Macon get the encampment, and, of course, worked to that end.

Without doubt, however, they fought boldly and openly for their own city. Who would not have done likewise? But it is unfortunate that any city should have the advantage of two votes as against the one vote from other points.

But the dissatisfaction is likely to be of serious import. It may in some way jeopardize the $35,000 per year appropriation, which was only gotten through the legislature by a hard fight, and then only when north Georgia representatives gave their votes to it, when it was agreed and understood that the encampment was to be located in north Georgia.

The Tribune, for the people it represents, does not have any but the kindest feelings towards Macon. There is no jealousy or dissatisfaction, so far as it is concerned, and it makes no charges of unfairness against the board advisory, but it opines that the reported action of the board in giving Macon an opportunity for a supplementary bid (and the "conditions" amount to that) without allowing other competing points to do the same, may work serious injury to the purpose for which it was appointed.

The fact that two members of the board refused to vote upon the last ballot, and the filing of their written protests against the action of the board in giving the encampment to Macon, shows that the division, internally, with the board was a serious one, and for that reason The Tribune cannot believe that the board will render a final decision without a mighty effort to put down any feeling of dissatisfaction by making its ultimate selection unanimous, and thus doing away with any subsequent charges or whispers of discrimination.

WHAT THE GOVERNOR SAYS.

"None of the protests were filed today," the governor said last night, replying to the question, "nor was there any time fixed as a limit for their being submitted. It seemed generally understood, however, that they would be submitted tomorrow."

"Have you called a meeting of the advisory board?" he was asked.

"No, for I have had no official protests yet. When they are submitted I will consider the expediency of having a meeting of the board."

The First Georgia Battalion Protest.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—The officers of the First Georgia Battalion of Volunteers, which is composed of three infantry companies in Augusta, one in Waynesboro and one in Washington, held a meeting this afternoon and drew up a petition that will be presented to each company for their signatures, protesting against a state military encampment being held in Macon as the advisory board has decided, and favoring the mountains for the location for holding the encampment. The protest, when completed, will be presented to the advisory board.

The White Star band tonight changed its name to the First Georgia Battalion band, and will become a part of the military battalion. There are twenty members in the band, and they will be furnished with regulation uniforms and will furnish music for the battalion on all future occasions.

Brunswick's Protest.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Brunswick has added her protest to those already made against the advisory board's action in regard to selecting Macon for permanent encampment. Today a committee from the board of trade sent this telegram:

Governor Northen, Atlanta, Ga.: We respectfully protest against the conditional acceptance of Macon's bid as unfair and discriminating against other bidders. Signed:

W. E. KAY,
J. S. THOMAS,
N. DART,
Committee.

Griffin's Protestors.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—Colonel Fred D. Dismuke and Douglas Giessner went to Atlanta today, in response to a telegram, to aid in the protest before the advisory board against its action relative to the Macon supplement bid. A strong protest will be made, and two more persistent protestors could not have been selected to represent us than the two who are there. Macon will find that when the military ship goes down forever, Griffin will be found hanging to the spars.

The Situation in Connecticut.

From The Boston Herald.

On the face of the returns the democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut received last November 67,658 votes, the republican candidate 63,975 votes and the prohibition candidate 3,413, giving the democratic candidate a clear majority of 270 votes. This result was officially announced by the board of state canvassers. The republicans insist on going back of these returns, and the democrats insist that they shall stand as counted. That is the Connecticut trouble in a nutshell, so far as the governorship is concerned.

HOW COTTON IS HURT.

DR. J. TURNER, OF THE CONGRESS, SAYS

That the South Loses Millions Every Year By Carelessly Handling the Fleecy Staple.

The entire south, farmers, merchants and men of all avocations and occupations are vitally interested in the great money crop of the south—cotton.

This interest extends through the process of vegetation until the raw material is in the hands of the spinner, and applies to quantity and quality and whatever may effect its market value.

Anything said by those who are in position to observe the result of the manner of handling and gathering the crop on the price is important to all, and especially to the agricultural class.

Standing yesterday at the compress warehouse among the hundreds of mud-spattered bales with gaping ends, from the sides of which five or six negroes were busily engaged picking off the damaged cotton, Dr. J. D. Turner, through whose hands all the cotton that comes by Atlanta passes, said:

"I know of no other product or material of like value which has as little care bestowed on it from the gathering and preparation for market until it reaches the great commercial center as cotton.

"No man would think of dumping right out into the wind and rain a cad of tobacco. Yet this is done every day for a $40 bale of cotton, which is more than the tobacco is worth.

"And there," continued Dr. Turner, pointing to some large canvass bags, filled with damaged cotton, "you see some of the results, flat cotton, relatively speaking, is worthless. This loss falls on the farmer, for the purchaser, when he bought, had in view, from its condition, that just what you see those negroes doing would have to be done, and fixed his price accordingly.

"When the large wooden screw surrounded by a shed was used, the farmer stored his cotton beneath its shelter to protect it from the weather. Now as soon as the cotton leaves the press it is thrown right out on the ground with nothing to cover it but the canopy of heaven, where the rains may come and the floods descend upon it. I don't suppose the farmers realize how much injury is done by pursuing such a course, and how much they lose by it."

"About what does this loss amount to?"

"Well, to illustrate out of our last receipts, which were 950 bales, there were 150 bales of damaged cotton. I mean by damaged cotton, cotton that has been so exposed to the weather that the outside has actually rotted, and from each of those 150 bales from sixty to seventy-five pounds of cotton, worth nothing, had to be picked off before it could be compressed and shipped. You can calculate what the loss was, as otherwise that cotton would have been worth about 8 cents per pound. The loss per bale frequently largely exceeds that amount. We had a shipment the other day of forty bales, every one of which was badly injured. The loss to the south and the cotton planter alone is away up in the millions."

"What do you think should be done about it?"

"The farmer is always willing to receive suggestions.

"Doubtless many of them labor under the impression that no great harm is done, for the fact is that in the early fall, and up to about the 1st of January, cotton damages but little by exposure, but when the rains begin to fall, and we have alternate warm and cold weather, lint cotton will rot almost as soon as cotton in the seed.

"There is another question which ought to interest the farmers, and which would in a financial way benefit him as much as taking proper care of the bale itself, and that is to gather his cotton as free from trash and dirt as possible, for it makes an immense difference in its market value. The difference in price between low and high grades seems to be widening and this year, notwithstanding the extremely low market, there has not been a time that a first-class bale of cotton would not have brought a fair price. In the enormous crop made this year, the problem of properly gathering was a difficult one for the farmer, and doubtless, to a large extent, accounts for the fact that from either trash or rain nearly the entire yield is low grade. But it is certain that it would be an act of kindness to call the farmers' and country merchants' attention to how much they are losing by allowing the cotton they have on hand to remain exposed to the rain."

AN INTERESTING CASE

Tried Before Recorder Kontz Yesterday Afternoon.

The case against O. A. V. Rose, charged with violating the city ordinance by going into his wholesale liquor house on Sunday, was called in police court yesterday, Judge Kontz presiding.

City Attorney Anderson appeared for the city and Mr. Carroll Payne represented the defendant.

The case was made against Mr. Rose last Sunday a week ago. He had gone into his place to light the gas.

Yesterday when the case came up, Judge Kontz was asked to make it a test case, allowing his decision to go as a precedent to govern other cases. This he refused to do, but said he would simply dispose of the case upon the circumstances as the evidence introduced without, regard to cases that may be made in the future.

Mr. Payne made the point that wholesale liquor dealers have the same right to go into their places of business as other merchants have, when they do not go there to sell or handle liquor.

Judge Kontz did not care to pass upon this feature of the question.

Evidence was introduced showing that Mr. Rose went into his store for no illegal purpose, and Judge Kontz dismissed the case against him.

A CHANGE IN OFFICERS.

Mr. Porter Declines the Presidency and Mr. Atkinson Succeeds Him.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Loan and Banking Company, Mr. J. H. Porter was re-elected to the presidency of that sterling institution.

But Mr. Porter finds that his larger interests in the Merchants' bank, of which he is president, make it impossible for him to accept a re-election to the position he has held with the Southern Loan and Banking Company, though he retains his interest and will remain a member of the board of directors of the company.

Yesterday the following officers were elected:

President—H. M. Atkinson.
Vice President—G. R. DeSaussure.
Cashier—R. C. DeSaussure.

The bank is in excellent condition, and, though but little over a year old, is regarded as one of Atlanta's soundest and best banking institutions.

WERE THE CARPENTERS TO BLAME?

They Drill a Hole Through a Fireplace and Set a Beam in It.

It was almost criminal carelessness.

But the destruction by fire of a fine new building was fortunately averted.

At 8:30 o'clock last evening word was conveyed to engine house No. 1 that the new structure being erected for Mr. James F. Dickie, on Broad, between Hunter and Mitchell street, had caught fire. Foreman Haney and Fireman Alsabrooks responded at once with buckets and axes, and after working about half an hour put the incipient blaze out.

The fire caught in a novel manner. The carpenters, in setting a floor support, had drilled clear through the wall into a room adjoining, occupied by the Atlanta Labeling Company. The occupants of that building say that, in doing so, the carpenters knocked into bricks through the back of their fireplace, and, despite their warnings, deliberately set the heavy wooden beam in this hole and left it there. Late evening a fire was kindled in the fireplace and, as was expected, the beam was ignited.

The Water Board.

The board of water commissioners will convene in regular monthly session today. So far only routine work is in sight.

ARRESTED IN AUGUSTA

AND BROUGHT BACK TO ATLANTA ON A WARRANT

Charging Him with Violating the Insurance Laws—An Interesting Case Will Be Developed.

Stephen G. Barton, a prominent capitalist and business man of Boston, Mass., was brought to Atlanta under arrest yesterday.

He was arrested in Augusta yesterday morning by Detective Bedford, of the Atlanta police department.

Mr. Barton's arrest was caused by a warrant sworn out by Mr. H. C. Stockdell, general agent of the Phœnix Insurance Company. The warrant charged him with cheating and swindling, by violating the insurance laws of the state.

Monday Mr. Barton, who is president of the Electric Mutual Insurance Company, and representative of the Royal Insurance Company, of Liverpool; the Germania, of London, and the Pennsylvania, of Philadelphia, was in Atlanta, on his way to Florida, with his friend Mr. L. Sterringer.

While here he closed up some business with the electric light company, and it was for doing this that the warrant was sworn out.

The law of the state regulating insurance requires that each and every insurance company doing business in the state shall, before beginning that business, make a deposit of $25,000 in the state treasury.

This deposit is to protect the policy holders.

Mr. Barton's company has never made this deposit, and when he wrote the insurance for the Atlanta property the local underwriters determined to test the law.

Monday night Mr. H. C. Stockdell, who had learned of Mr. Barton's departure for Augusta, went to Justice King's home and swore out a warrant for his arrest on the charge given.

He then notified Chief Connolly, and Chief Hood, of Augusta, was telegraphed.

To save time Detective Bedford was sent to Augusta before Mr. Barton was arrested there.

Yesterday morning Detective Bedford found Mr. Barton at the Planters' hotel. When told what the charge was he willingly returned to Atlanta.

He arrived here yesterday afternoon, and waiving preliminary hearing, gave bond in the sum of $1,000. Judge H. E. W. Palmer signed the bond.

Mr. Barton is confident that he has not violated the law. He says his business here was negotiated in Massachusetts and is secured there.

This being so, an interesting question will be put in issue before the courts. It is whether an insurance company of Massachusetts or any other state can insure property in Georgia.

Mr. Stockdell says the case will be pushed for all it is worth. He says he has instructions from the comptroller general to Solicitor Hill to put the question to the full test.

It will be an interesting case.

FROM OUR NOTEBOOKS.

Two Arrests.—Deputy Marshal Johnson brought in John T. Wilson, of Rockdale, arrested on a charge of illicit retailing. He was taken before Commissioner Haight, who fixed his bond at $100, which he gave.

William C. Wesson, of Harralson county, charged with illicit distilling, was arrested by Deputy Marshal McDonald and brought before Commissioner Haight. Wesson waived examination and his bond was fixed at $300. He made good the amount and was released.

A Slick Negro.—Jim Woodward is behind the bars at the station house, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. A week or so ago Woodward met Ed McCullom on Peters street, and offered to give him a check on the Gate City bank for $10 for $8.50. McCullom took him up, but upon presentation found Woodward's check was no good.

A Small Fire.—The department was called out at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by a fire on Decatur street, near Butler. The bedroom in a negro lunch-house had caught fire, but it was extinguished with nominal damage.

The Third Presbyterian.—The building committee of the Third Presbyterian church respectfully requests all friends who have subscribed to the building fund of the new church to hand in the amount of their subscription as soon as possible to Rev. A. R. Holderby, or to the treasurer, H. T. Heery, 209 Marietta street. The committee would be very glad also to receive contributions from friends who have not yet subscribed anything, as they are much in need of funds to complete the new church.

A Big Suit.—Yesterday Adam Jones, through his attorney, Mr. C. T. Ladson, filed a suit for $10,000 for personal damages against the Richmond and Danville. He was injured on the night of the 17th of February, by being knocked down and badly broken up while numbering cars in the yards.

A Badly Frightened Drayman.—Yesterday morning a serious, and what came near being a fatal, accident occurred at the Whitehall street crossing of the Central railroad, at West End. As it was one mule was killed outright, another badly injured and a drayman was scared almost to death. It happened this way: When the negro drayman arrived at this crossing he saw a long freight train close at hand. He stopped close to the track and waited until the cab had passed, when he touched up his mules and started in a rush. The passing freight had obscured his view of the other parallel track, and he did not see a train rushing upon him in the opposite direction from that which the freight was going. It struck him in a heap, killed one of his mules, knocked the other senseless, knocked the driver forty feet and demolished the wagon. The negro was not seriously hurt, strange to say.

An Old Timer.—Mr. W. Hall, one of the old timers, and one of the best known revenue collectors in the country, spent a few hours in the city yesterday, on his way to Forsyth. He is the chief of storekeepers and distillery inspectors for Georgia.

Commandery Meeting.—Cœur de Lion Commandery Knights Templar, will hold a special meeting this evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock sharp. The commandery is now nearing the close of its year, and a full attendance is requested, as a large number of candidates are awaiting to take the degrees.

Rain and Rain.—From December 1st up to date Atlanta has had over sixty days of rain. Observer Bryam, of the signal service department, says this record is unparalleled in this section, as this great amount of rain has never before fallen here in the same period.

Will Probably Die.—Gus Harris, or Gus Echols, as he is sometimes known, the negro who was stabbed Monday afternoon by Schell Haynes, is in a very critical condition. The chances are that he will die. Haynes has not yet been caught.

A Hand Mashed.—Will Butler, an employe at Foote's trunk factory, met with a painful accident yesterday. While at work his hand was caught in the machinery, and was badly mashed, breaking several joints, and almost severing one finger. He was moved to his home, where necessary surgical assistance was given.

Election of Officers.—The board of directors of the Young Men's Real Estate and Investment Company met last night and elected officers for the ensuing year.

The election resulted: President, George W. Sciple; vice president, R. A. Hemphill; secretary and treasurer, R. M. Farrar; attorney, L. W. Thomas; finance committee, R. A. Hemphill, Josh Tye, W. J. Connally; real estate committee, G. W. Sciple, R. A. Hemphill, Joe F. Gatins.

Piedmont Club Officers.—At a recent meeting of the Piedmont Club, President Ridley was unanimously re-elected to that position, and Mr. Humphreys Castleman was re-elected vice president. Messrs. Jack J. Spalding, Edward C. Peters, Peter Grant, Joe Thompson and Joseph Kingsberry were elected directors. A resolution was adopted requesting the exposition company to allow the election to the club of non-holders of stock provided they pay fees to be fixed by the club.

STANLEY IS COMING.

HE WILL BE HERE ON THE 2D OF APRIL.

The Library Making Preparations for His Reception—A Rousing Meeting of the Board Last Night.

Make way for Stanley!

The explorer of the Dark Continent will be here on April 2d, and the Young Men's Library is already making preparations to receive him. At last night's meeting of the board of directors the matter came up, and the eleven members present were all enthusiastic over the prospect. It was the sentiment that the opera house would not contain the crowds that will come to hear him.

The entertainment committee, who have the matter in charge, will meet this evening at 6 o'clock. The members are J. W. Nutting, chairman, Eugene Mitchell, Charles A. Read and W. G. Cooper. Vigorous measures will be taken to advertise Stanley all over the state and in large towns accessible in neighboring states. When the thirty days have passed there will not be an intelligent person in the region who will not have been reached by some form of advertisement.

During the past two weeks Major J. B. Pond, Stanley's manager, telegraphed from he west that the explorer was attended by such immense crowds, and so overwhelmed with attention, that he would be one day late, and at his request the date was changed from the 1st to the 2d of April. At Major Pond's request the price of seats has been fixed at $2, $1.50 and $1.

There are 2,500 seats in the opera house, and they will be readily sold at these prices. It would be an easy matter to fill 5,000. It is not once in a generation that the pioneer of a continent comes along and it is not surprising that everybody wants to see him.

Last Night's Meeting.

When President Slaton called the board to order last night there were eleven members present and all eleven of them enthusiastic. The first business was the reception of forty-one members. That kinder warmed things up. Then the monthly report was read and the facts it disclosed added fuel to the flame. The issue of books for February was 1,790 against 1,136 for February last year, and the collections were $104.70 against $75.85 for the same month last year.

It is no longer necessary to solicit people to join. They come of their own accord. Most of those received last night were volunteers. The library is doing such a rushing business in the issue of books that it requires the entire time of one person to enter them.

Mr. Gude, of the library committee, announced the early completion of the catalogue supplement, and the style and arrangement were briefly discussed. The supplement will be put to press in a few days, and a large number of copies will be struck off—probably 2,000 or 3,000. A few pages will be devoted to advertisements, and will class high, for it will be a permanent advertisement among the families of 840 members, who, with their families, make more than 4,000 people.

THE Y'S OF ATLANTA.

An Entertainment Thursday Evening for the Benefit of Schools for the Poor.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Atlanta, a young ladies' benevolent society, will give an entertainment at Trinity church Thursday night.

The programme has not as yet been completed, but will be one to please and interest all. It will consist of music by Atlanta's best talent, and recitations by well-known elocutionists.

A souvenir will be given to all who attend as a pleasant reminder of an enjoyable evening.

After the music and recitations there will be a sociable known as the "Y's" hatchet party.

This society now numbers seventy-five members. It is endeavoring to establish schools for the poor children in different parts of the city.

A kindergarten school has already been opened at the Barclay mission on Marietta street and the proceeds from the sale of tickets to the entertainment tomorrow evening will go toward fitting up the schoolroom.

TO ROOF THE HOME.

Carrie Steele Makes an Appeal to the City Council.

Carrie Steele, the colored woman who was formerly stewardess at the union depot, and who has been the moving spirit in the building of the Colored Orphans' Home, has a very important petition pending now before council.

The funds left in her hands have all been expended.

The building is now two stories high and complete, all but the roof.

The petition is for the city's aid in putting on the roof, so that the building can be finished and put to the use for which it was intended.

Accompanying the petition is an itemized account of all money received, from all sources, and showing when and how every cent of it was expended.

The money has been expended judiciously; and as the amount needed to complete this charitable and deserving work is comparatively a small one, it is quite probable the council will consider the petition favorably.

The asylum will be a lasting monument to the devotion and integrity of this colored woman, and a charity worthy of generous treatment at the hands of the city government.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The Ladies' Association Making Preparations for Its Observance.

The Ladies' Memorial Association held its regular monthly meeting yesterday, Mrs. John Milledge, the president, in the chair.

The greater part of the time was occupied in discussing plans for necessary work on the soldiers' graves in the cemetery. Trees are to be planted, hedges refilled and plants and shrubbery removed. No definite action was taken.

Mesdames Ellis and Armistead, the committee appointed at the last meeting to wait on Colonel Calhoun, president of the Veterans' Association and colonel commanding of the Fourth battalion, reported that he had promised to make all arrangements for the proper military observance of Memorial Day, the 26th of April. The ladies of the association will have charge of all decorations on that day.

The Columbus Ladies.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 3.—[Special.]—The Ladies' Memorial Association met today to arrange for the commemoration of Memorial Day. Several committees were appointed, and a programme of exercises was decided upon. Hon. William Wooten, of Albany, was elected orator of the day.

VISITING JOURNALISTS.

Mr. A. I. Branham, of The Tribune-of-Rome, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. W. B. Callahan, editor and owner of The West Point Press, is in the city.

Mr. Henry C. Meyer, editor and proprietor of The Engineering Record, of New York, is at the Kimball.

IN SOCIETY'S DOMAIN.

NEWS AND GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Mrs. Peters's Dinner to Mrs. Choppin—A Concert at the Young Men's Christian Association—Personal Points.

One of the most elegant dinners of the season was given Monday evening by Mr and Mrs. Edward C. Peters in honor of Mrs. Choppin, of New York. The table was decorated entirely in yellow, the centerpiece being a bank of golden roses. The hand-painted menu cards were exquisite works of art, and the menu itself was delicious and dainty.

The guests present were Mrs. Choppin, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Miss Clarke, Miss Joan Clarke, Lieutenant and Mrs. Walker, Mr. Clarence Knowles, Mr. Robert Lowry, Mr. Juintard Peters, Mr. Thomas Cobb Jackson.

⁂

Rev. William Kight and wife, of Piedmont, Pa., after spending several weeks with their son, Mr. C. N. Kight, of this city, have returned to their home.

The evil combination of a soggy atmosphere, slushy streets and a drizzling rain could not deter a large number of music lovers from attending the concert last night in the Y. M. C. A. hall; and their presence, under such adverse conditions, implied the most genuine and substantial compliment which could be paid Miss Golden and her talented assistants.

The opening number served to introduce the fair debutante, who at once produced a pleasing impression. She is a handsome young lady, of superb physique, and is undoubtedly possessed of exceptional talent. All her work was conscientiously done, and showed her excellent training. She displayed a fine technique and an unusual musical intelligence. She deserves to be placed in the category of Atlanta's finest pianists.

Mrs. O'Brien's singing was far above that usually heard in local concerts. Her voice is a rare contralto of great power and wide range, and she sings with feeling. Her success was marked.

Mr. Natorp Blumenfeld, the violinist, has often astonished and delighted Atlanta audiences by his artistic playing, but it is safe to say he last night surpassed any of his previous efforts. His rendering of the difficult concerto by Rubenstein was unexceptionable; but in the last movement of the great Mendelssohn concerto he rose to greatness.

⁂

Master Curtis Lee Turner will observe his fifth birthday at his parents' home, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Turner, 36 Cone street, this evening. Quite a number of invitations have been sent out for the promising young gentleman's birthday party.

⁂

Mrs. Choppin, who has been the guest of Mrs. Joseph Thompson, leaves for her home in New York today. Her going is greatly deplored by that fortunate portion of society which had the pleasure of knowing a woman so rarely original, brilliant and attractive.

⁂

Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Cary, who have been boarding at the Angier house, are now at home to their friends at 239 Crumley street. The ladies of St. John's church have taken quite an interest in fitting up this home as a parsonage for their pastor.

⁂

The Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent society will give a kaffee-klatch at Concordia hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The amount realized is to be devoted to charitable purposes, and a large attendance is expected. It will be altogether informal, and social features will be introduced.

⁂

The Dime Social Club of the Young People's Christian League of Trinity church will meet Friday night at the residence of Mrs. E. P. Chamberlin, 146 Whitehall street. A delightful programme consisting of music and recitations will be presented. The money is for the benefit of the League piano fund. The old as well as the young are invited.

THEY PAY HALF.

Venable Brothers & Collins Agree to a Settlement.

Judge Marshall J. Clarke rendered a decision yesterday morning in the case of Venable Brothers & Collins against the city of Atlanta.

It was in the way of a consent judgment.

It decreed that the plaintiffs should pay half the tax fi. fa. issued against them by the city for the tax assessed on the old capitol building.

This settlement was brought about by Messrs. Candler and Thompson, on the part of the plaintiffs, and Messers. Goodwin and Anderson, attorneys for the city.

So long as the state holds any claim on the property, according to this judgment, the plaintiffs are only responsible for half the amount of the city taxes.

WHERE IS TAYLOR?

IT IS RUMORED THAT THE NEGRO IS GONE,

And that He Was Spirited Away by Sheriff Morrow as a Precaution Against Danger of Lynching.

Where is Charles Taylor, the negro jailed Monday for cutting Miss McClure's throat?

A report was circulated yesterday that he had been moved from the jail.

But where?

Nobody knows and the officers will not tell.

There is much doubt about the truth of the statement that the negro has been removed from the Fulton county jail.

If the negro is still in jail, the statement of the jailers is made to lead the public off the trail and to guard against any possible trouble.

Yesterday afternoon a CONSTITUTION reporter made a visit to the jail to investigate the rumor that Taylor had been taken away.

At first the jailers all said he was not in the jail; that he was safely concealed outside of the city.

Then Jailer Faith said he was there, and they were prepared to hold him no matter what should come.

Afterwards he took back what he said, and agreed with the others that the negro had been removed.

Nothing definite about the prisoner could be ascertained.

About the courthouse and in police circles, all sorts of talk about the negro's rumored removal was indulged in.

It was said that Sheriff Morrow had taken the prisoner away Monday night, late, in a wagon to a station outside the city, and from there by train to some town near Atlanta.

Then it was said Sheriff Morrow had got aboard the Western and Atlantic train at 11 o'clock and taken Taylor to Marietta.

It was rumored that Macon was the place where he was taken, but the officials were as dumb as oysters when questioned about the prisoner.

Sifted down, the situation is this: If the negro is in Fulton county jail, the jailers want the impression to go out that he is not, in order to avert any trouble that may threaten.

Then if he is not there they will not give any clue to his whereabouts. They are afraid he will be the cause of trouble wherever he is.

Yesterday there was some talk about the negro, but from the general sentiment expressed there is no ground for apprehension of violence.

THE TURN VEREIN CLUB.

Excellent Music by Atlanta's Best Talent On Its Eighteenth Anniversary.

The Atlanta Turn Verein celebrated its eighteenth anniversary last night, with a grand concert and hop.

The programme presented was excellent, and such as would delight any lover of music.

The members of the chorus were in splendid voice, and showed the careful training received under their efficient director, Mr. J. P. O'Donnelly.

The rendition of the "Pilgrims' Chorus," from Tanhouesr, with orchestra accompaniment, and the "Waltz," by Koschat, were especially fine.

The club was particularly fortunate in securing outside talent.

The "Scene and Jewel" song, from Faust, was rendered by Madame Werner in an artistic and faultless style, delighting the audience.

Madame Werner also sang "Meyer Helmund" in a manner that was highly appreciated.

Mr. Woodbury made his first appearance as a soloist in Dr. Bemot's "Scene de Ballet," his fine execution of which gives him reason to be proud.

Mr. Owens, who has been singing for the past two months in the choir of the First Baptist church, and who is a recent accession to Atlanta's musical circles, made his first appearance in concert. He has a magnificent tenor voice which will rank among the finest voices in Atlanta.

Wurm's orchestra of fifteen pieces excelled itself in the "Pique Dance" overture by Suppe, and their work with the chorus was fine and effective.

Atlanta seldom has such a musical treat.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 3.—In the stock market today a more confident tone was exhibited, and there was but little pressure to sell. The prices of Burlington, Pacific Mail, and Louisville were persistently held above the close of yesterday. The holders of Pacific Mail seem to have settled upon about what that subsidy will be worth to the company. That stock became quiet, taking a secondary position in the market. Its early movement, however, was the most important of the day, though the revival of the speculative interest in sugar made that active and strong in the afternoon. There were still efforts to get Burlington off further with prognostications of smaller earnings during the next two months, and the assertion that Gould had been antagonized by the management, with other influences, but, while it remained the most active stock on the list, it was held fairly steady, and at times even firm, at the close to 79, reaching that point in the afternoon. Silver certificates were also more active and firmer, aided by the diminishing stocks here and late exports, the decline or failure of the free coinage bill having evidently reached its limit. Late in the day Villard's became the leading feature, and material advances were scored, especially in Northern Pacific preferred, on what looked like buying for the present bull leaders. The general list displayed some lack of interest, and after a firm opening, with advances over last night's prices of 1 per cent in Pacific Mail and ⅞ in Northern Pacific preferred, there was a general decline in the early dealings, in sympathy with a drop of 1¼ in Pacific Mail. The natural strength of the market then became apparent, and everything traded in moved upward, the advance gaining force as time wore along, and culminating only in the last hour. The transactions outside of the stocks mentioned, however, were without feature, although there was considerable activity in several of the usually active stocks. The market finally closed dull but firm, at the best prices of the day, and generally at small fractions better than last evening.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Europe was a prominent buyer of Louisville and Nashville, and this was the only stock they looked at with favor. The room traders attacked the stock all day and sold and talked it down, but as Europe took all the stock offered, they had to cover later in the day. Net earnings for January are expected in a few days, and they will probably show a decrease. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy rallied on covering by shorts and some long buyers; the stock around these prices ought to be a fair speculation. Northern Pacifics were favorably affected by the decision in favor of the company regarding the lands suit. This will add at least $5,000,000 worth of land that they can sell to the preferred stock.

The market fluctuated within very narrow limits. The room traders are still the largest traders.

Atchison securities were weak, the incomes touched forty and the Boston houses were the largest sellers. These bonds are beginning to look very inviting, and we advise purchase.

No new engagements for gold were announced, and they rallied in consequence. CAHN & Co.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Special.]—Manchester reports no improvement in trade, and Liverpool closes weak at a sharp decline of 4 points from yesterday. The movement of the crop continues on an enormous scale without any indication of exhaustion, the receipts today being nearly 28,000 bales and fully 15,000 bales expected tomorrow. We have therefore received since Friday night 78,600 bales, against 61,000 bales the entire week last year. Our market declines slowly, though the weight of previous experience is creating a feeling of hesitancy about following the market further, and this sentiment has caused the buying of a large amount of cotton by those who have looked for this decline. This buying has prevented a sharp decline today and led many to believe a reaction was due both here and abroad; but unless the movement falls off sharply or trade revives, the reaction can be but temporary. Cotton has reached such a point on this decline, under the weight of receipts, that the trade hesitates to be long.

By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Liverpool came successively lower, making a decline of almost 4-64d for the day. In addition, our private Manchester advices read quite unfavorable and doubtless had a bearing in all directions. On top of this, the receipts were again liberal, and it is small wonder that prices have declined. In fact, considering the surroundings, we might have looked for a further giving way. The apprehension now is that weak holders may now be forced to sell, and in the absence of any short interest to speak of these things may, and probably will, have a further depressing effect. As so often stated the price is certainly in favor of the article, but beyond this there is absolutely nothing to encourage any large trading on the long side, and we cannot yet see anything before us to express a favorable opinion. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, March 3—This was a dull day on the board. Neither bulls nor bears in wheat were able to make a great deal of headway. May wheat started out at 97¼c, sold to 96⅞@97c, up to 97½, and by 12:30 o'clock was off to 96⅛@96⅞c. Several little combinations of scalpers who sold wheat short at the outset bought it back during the bulge that followed. The demand for wheat below 97c for May was good to the close.

The corn men succeeded in creating quite a little boom in their grain. There was more than the usual quantity of contract grain among the local receipts, which were generous. This induced many outsiders to sell corn, but the local bulls quickly punished them for their recklessness. May started at 55¾, and was boomed up to 56½c before sellers succeeded in getting back the property sold earlier. After their wants had been satisfied, May sold off to 56½c.

Oats were as strong relatively as corn, but trading was limited.

Receipts of hogs at the yards were 4,000 head less than packers expected. This, with the strength in corn, started quite a number of small shorts to buying and advanced values materially. May pork started at $10.00 and sold at $10.07½@10.10. Offerings at the advance were quite liberal; and the demand having suddenly fallen off, broke to $.87½@9.90. Lard and ribs followed the fluctuations in pork.

CHICAGO, March 3.—The continued favorable weather in the winter wheat region, cables a shade easier, and a small increase in the amount on passage caused quite a weak feeling at the opening, but, much to the surprise of most of our best local scalpers, the market displayed considerable strength, advancing something over ½c per bushel from the opening. When at its height cables were reported again lower, and continued snow in the winter wheat region brought some selling orders from the southeast, causing a decline to about the opening, the market remaining dull and featureless at about yesterday's prices.

Corn was again strong. The receipts were too light, and the spring months being unfavorable to large deliveries, very few are venturesome enough to sell it short. Consequently it requires but very little buying to advance the market. Any attempt to bull the market in the interests of holders would not be met with much resistance.

The receipts of oats were not very much larger than the consumptive demand of a few large cities, and the light stocks prevent much of a speculative interest centering in them.

We could not discover a trade in May rye, but there seemed to be a good inquiry for cash, and what few car lots there were sold readily at full prices.

There was little interest noticed in the provision crowd. A little better demand from the south was noted, but the speculative feeling was without any local feature. LAMSON BROS. & Co.

The Petroleum Market.

NEW YORK, March 3—The petroleum market was dull in the early hours, but after noon the pressure to sell from the west caused a decline of ½c, after which the market closed steady.

Divine, surgeon; Robert L. Rodgers, historian; Thomas P. Cleveland, chaplain; as officers, and those associated with them, as members of the Confederate Veterans' Association of Fulton County, Georgia, respectfully show that the objects of said organization are the conservation of Confederate memories, the promotion of fellowship, and the cultivation of friendship between the surviving officers and the soldiers of the army, navy, marine and signal corps, and other organizations in the service of the Confederacy; the exhibition of loyal respect to the recollections and impulses of a Confederate past; the encouragement and practice of manly virtues; the extension of reasonable aid and sympathy to fellow members in seasons of sickness and distress, and, in case of death, burial and the rendition of suitable funeral honors. NOTICE.

HAVING RETIRED FROM THE WILSON Coal and Lumber Co., on the 28th of February, 1891, I recommend to my successors the patronage of my friends.

I shall be engaged for the next two months at the office, 24 South Broad street, Atlanta, Ga.

I commenced in the real estate, renting and collection of accounts, in this city, in September, 1865, and continued in it until the fall of 1867, when the Coal Creek coal mines were opened in East Tennessee; then, through the kindness of Major Campbell Wallace, who had the first coal from these mines shipped to me, I soon found that there was more demand for coal than land, in this city, and I commenced in that business.

It is my intention, about the 1st of May, to return to the real estate business again, trusting that my old friends and the citizens of Atlanta will give me a share of their patronage, pledging them that I will use my best endeavors to serve them faithfully. Respectfully,
EDWARD PARSONS.

IN THE CITY HALL.

THE ATLANTA GASLIGHT COMPANY'S PETITION

May End in a Big Lawsuit—Mr. McBride's Hack Ordinance—Mr. Reinhardt and the Grady Hospital.

Atlanta and the Atlanta Gaslight Company are having a little spat.

And it may all end in an appeal to the courts.

The gas company began operating in Atlanta in 1855, the city, through the mayor and general council, agreeing to take a certain amount of stock in the company.

Then a contract was entered into between the city and the company, granting the company the exclusive right to illuminate the city and exempting it from city taxes for a period of fifty years from the date of the erection of the gas works.

Several years ago, when electricity became the rage for street lights, Atlanta made a contract with the electric light company for a certain number of electric lights. Then for a time the city was lighted by both gas and electricity.

But gas was too dim to please progressive Atlanta when electricity had been given a fair trial.

One by one the gas posts were plugged up until not a gas jet could be found on an Atlanta street corner.

At that time the city still held its stock in the gaslight company, and the stock was valuable. Time and time again it was hypothecated by the finance committee to relieve the treasury temporarily.

But a few years ago the city decided to erect the Girls' High school building, and in arranging for the money, the general council sold its block of stock.

In the meantime, the gaslight people say in their communication to Mayor Hemphill and the general council, the company was never asked for taxes.

However, things have changed recently. A few weeks ago Marshal Loyd notified the gas company that he held a fi. fa. against it for $3,000 and cost, and that he had been instructed to collect the same. The company asserts that the time of exemption from taxation has not expired, and that the marshal has no right to collect the taxes.

The attorneys for the company, Messrs. Jackson & Jackson, indicate a determination to carry the matter into the courts if the mayor and general council do not consent to an adjudication.

The paper was sent to the tax committee by the mayor and yesterday Messrs. Reinhardt, Rice and Turner were investigating the matter.

It seems from the papers, on file in the city clerk's office and the court that when the company was formed, Mr. G. T. Dodd was chairman of the finance committee, and the city took at that time about $90,000 of the stock.

A few years ago the Gate City Gas Company began work in Atlanta, and during its existence was subject to tax. The new company bought out the old company, when the consolidation was effected, but retained the name of the Atlanta Gaslight Company, and it will be claimed that the trade wiped out all rights the Atlanta company had under that contract.

The members of the committee will continue their investigation until a satisfactory conclusion is reached.

The Grady Hospital.

Mr. Reinhardt's ordinance to create a board of trustees for the Grady hospital will be considered by the committee Thursday.

The ordinance asked for six trustees.

It provides for one member from each ward, and declares that the board's duties shall be, after election, to meet and organize. The board is to have control and management of the hospital, under the direction of such ordinances and resolutions of the general council as may be made from time to time.

The term of office of the trustees is to be two years, after the first term, hereinafter provided. No practicing physician shall be eligible to the office of trustee.

At the first election there shall be two elected from the first and sixth wards for three years; two from the second and fifth wards, for two years, and two from the third and fourth wards for one year. Before entering upon the duties as said trustees, they shall take an oath before the mayor to faithfully discharge the duties as trustees during the term of office, without favor or affection to any person or corporation whatever.

After the first election, there shall be two trustees elected annually by the general council, at the first regular meeting in April of every year, from the respective wards from which the vacancies occur.

The mayor is made an ex-officio member.

The Cabby's Fare.

Mr. McBride's hack ordinance produced considerable talk yesterday.

The hack men do not like it.

By the laws governing hacks, as Mr. McBride makes them, it is unlawful for a driver of a one-horse vehicle to charge more than twenty-five cents for a trip for one person. A two-horse vehicle may charge fifty cents for each person, and both are allowed to double the rate after 10 o'clock at night.

This does away with those rates for ten blocks and additional charge over that distance.

"Nor shall any hackman," says the ordinance, "refuse to haul a passenger when not otherwise engaged under penalty of a fine."

The section of the ordinance allowing a driver to make an agreement as to the price between himself and passenger instead of the tariff rate named has been repealed.

This change leaves the public less at the mercy of the cab driver.

THE BOARD TO ORGANIZE.

The Police Commissioners to Elect a Chairman Next Monday Night.

The present board of police commissioners will meet for the last time next Monday night.

The two new members, Mr. Laird and Mr. Gramling, will be present.

Chairman English will call the old board to order and after some unfinished business has been disposed of, the board will adjourn sine die.

Mr. Stevens and Mr. Brown will vacate the chairs they have filled so long and so well.

Then Mr. Laird and Mr. Gramling will drop into the vacancies.

Captain English will then call the new board to order and an organization will be begun.

A chairman will first be elected. Then a chairman pro tem.

And then a secretary.

The board will be composed of Captain English, Captain Brotherton, Mr. Frank Lester, Mr. William Laird, Mr. W. S. Gramling and Mayor Hemphill, who is an ex-officio member.

Each of the six gentlemen will have a vote.

Captain English will be re-elected chairman of that there seems to be no doubt.

Mr. Lester, who is chairman pro tem., will probably be elected.

Mr. Gramling, it is said, will be made secretary.

Mr. Laird went before Mayor Hemphill yesterday and qualified by taking the oath of office.

Several days ago it was rumored that in the event of the election of Messrs. Laird and Gramling, Captain Brotherton would be a candidate for chairman of the board. He, however, settled that question yesterday, as he did when the rumor originally appeared, by saying: "I am not a candidate for chairman, neither will I be, for I am for Captain Jim English for that place."

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

The fragrancy of Shepard's B. B. Cologne is as delicate as the rose, and this, with its lasting qualities, makes it the most desirable perfume in the market.

PATSY DIXON'S SUIT.

A Suit Against a Railroad—The Case Goes to the Jury.

In the city court the case of Patsy Dixon against the Georgia Pacific railroad was tried yesterday.

It was a suit for damages.

The jury will hand in a verdict this morning.

During the evening one of the jurors asked Judge Van Epps whether, in case of a disagreement up to supper time, it meant an all-night stay.

"Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof," replied the judge as he dismissed the court.

ATLANTA'S SICK.

Mr. Will Grady is quite ill at his sister's home, Mrs. H. W. Grady, on Peachtree.

Mr. J. C. Hendrix was decidedly better yesterday, and his early recovery is now predicted.

Dr. J. M. Boring was worse last night than he has been for several days past.

Mr. Jack Harris is improving, and his attending physician hopes to have him up in a short time.

Mr. Wesley Lindsay, well known in Atlanta, is quite ill at his father-in-law's home, a few miles east of the city.

Mr. Wynne Buried.

Yesterday the funeral of Mr. Charles C. Wynne occurred from the residence of Mr. Charles H. Swift, on South Pryor street.

There were a large number of friends in attendance. The remains were laid to rest in Oakland.

A Baby's Death.

The death of little Knox Harris, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Harris, occurred at the residence, No. 49 Hood street, yesterday morning. He was a bright little baby, and many friends join in sympathizing with the afflicted parents.

Neuralgia in its manifold forms or sciatica are readily cured with Salvation Oil. 25 cents.

WHAT TO EAT,

And Where to Get It.

During the Lenten season the question of what to eat has its share of thought.

Nearly all, who are in any way interested, decide upon a suitable selection of some delicacy in fish.

For instance, what is more palatable for breakfast than a fine mackerel? Not the ordinary, poor tasteless mackerel, but a large, fat, fancy quality bloater mackerel. If you have never eaten a fine, fancy bloater, you do not know what mackerel are. We have received another lot of extra quality bloaters, and invite a trial of them.

The smoked halibut are also of fine quality and flavor.

You will find something nice in our Yarmouth smoked herring.

For dinner what could be nicer than McMenamen's crabs, put up in cans? With every 2-pound can we give eight shells, and properly baked and dressed it makes a tempting dish.

Then we have the imported whole herring in cans. It requires very little preparation, and makes a nice dish for supper.

Then we have brook trout in cans; also, an extra quality canned Columbia river salmon, put up in self-opening cans.

We have especially fancy French sardines, packed in genuine olive oil.

A nice clam chowder, properly prepared, commends it to the taste of a great many, to those we can say that the brand of clam chowder which we have is the very best.

In pickles we can satisfy the most fastidious.

Our stuffed cucumbers, cantaloupe, mangoes, and bell peppers, are the perfection of pickles, highly spiced and of fine flavor.

Also, Heinz, plain, mixed chow chow, by the quart or bottle.

Besides the above, you can find the greatest variety of fine and fresh groceries at our store.

Our patronage is of such magnitude as to necessitate daily orders ourselves, and thus insure fresh goods.

In addition to which, our goods are kept clean and in good condition.

Why buy old and store-worn goods, when you can always be certain of pure and fresh goods from us? Come and see us.

The Power of Money.

What an influence for good or evil is exerted by the proper or improper use of money. It seems to be the first essential of modern life. Sad indeed is the lot of that man or that woman without money and without friends. Especially in cases of sickness is the need of money felt most pressingly, and yet even the rich with all their money fall into a state of poor health and die, whereas if their money was rightly expended and the proper remedies applied they might regain health and strength.

Z. A. Clark, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I spent four hundred and eighty dollars in gold to cure me of terrible blood poison that affected my limbs and nose and body, with running ulcers. One month's treatment of B. B. B. healed the ulcers, restored my appetite, strengthened my kidneys and added 21 pounds to weight."

Still, in spite of this and much other testimony there are many who refuse to try the remedy, seeming to prefer to pay large fees to physicians, or visit distant springs in vain hopes of recovery. The great truth, however, shines brightly and that is, that no one who ever gives B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial ever found disappointment therein.

O. H. Rudolph, Talladega, Fla., writes: "I had blood disease for six years, but nothing benefited me, although I paid two hundred and fifty dollars for treatment. I last tried B. B. B. and found it a quick and cheap blood purifier."

ROBERT MILLER, Manager. L. M. WARD, Secretary and Treasurer

...E BUYING AGENT,

TO BE APPOINTED BY MAYOR HEMPHILL.

Three Gentlemen Are Spoken Of—Captain Garrett's Friends Send in a Strong Petition.

Who will be Atlanta's purchasing agent?

It's a mighty hard question to answer just now.

Quite a number of gentlemen all competent, faithful citizens have been suggested but none of them seem to be making an active search for the place.

Mr. R. J. Griffin, the present tax receiver. Mr. W. A. Hansell and Captain W. J. Garrett have been spoken of.

And the friends of each are working industriously to secure the appointment of their favorite.

Captain Garrett's friends secured the first blood, however, in the battle. All day yesterday they were energetically engaged in circulating a petition to Mayor Hemphill for Captain Garrett's appointment. The paper was signed by the most prominent and successful business men in the city and was presented to Mayor Hemphill late yesterday afternoon.

The signers to the petition represent $12,000,000 to $15,000,000.

It reads:

ATLANTA, Ga., March 3, 1891.—Hon. W. A. Hemphill, Mayor, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: We notice that upon your recommendation, the city council created the position of purchasing agent for the city, which meets our hearty approval and fills a long-needed want. And we, as taxpayers, thank you for the suggestion, and also thank the members of council who so ably gave their support to this measure.

We have looked over the field carefully, and would most respectfully request you to appoint to this responsible and important position a man whose name and integrity, and financial standing and general information carries with it confidence, and will save the city thousands of dollars each year. We mean such a man as Captain W. J. Garrett; this is the kind of man needed in this position.

This is done without his knowledge or consent, and we think the city will be complimented by his appointment.

Mayor Hemphill received the paper, but so far has given no indication of what he will do.

The appointment will not be made until after the aldermanic board meets Thursday, as that body will have to concur in the amount of the salary.

Change of life, backache, monthly irregularities, hot flashes, are cured by Dr. Miles Nervine. Free samples at all druggists.

Heed the Warning,

It is not infrequently the case that itching pimples and irritating "cat boils" are the forerunners of larger boils, or the more serious carbuncles. Invariably Nature puts on her danger signals, and they should be heeded at once. The pimples little boils show that the blood is not in a good condition and nature is trying to relieve the system. A few doses of Swift's Specific at this juncture will accomplish wonders. The eruption will be healed and the system cleansed of its impurities. The modern paraphrase of the old saying, "A stitch in time," etc., is that "Timely stitches will save nine pairs of breeches." The modern form has a touch of humor that does not modify the truth of it. In that vein, we may say that a course of Swift's Specific prevents ills terrific.

If your Headache prevents your enjoyment, don't let it—Bradycrotine.

The Portrait of a Lady

Painted on paper by the pen of such a novelist as Henry James will do very well, but the real portrait of a real lady is a very different affair. Has she pimples on her face, or blotches? Is her complexion sallow? If so, the conscientious artist in this realistic age will have to put them all down. The lady's remedy for her pimples, blotches and sallowness is the great vegetable remedy for the blood. There can be no beauty where there is no health, whereas the most commonplace features are rendered piquant and interesting by a beautiful complexion S.S.S. restores strength and vigor to the system, gives tone to the digestive organs, and cures all nervous disorders. The potency of this wonderful blood medicine is unquestionable, and yet, powerful as it is, it may be taken by the feeblest child and by the most delicate female. It has no rival in the wide field which it covers. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases Mailed Free.

All Winter clothing must go. We've said it before. But repeat it now with double emphasis. Your liberal buying during recent days indicates that the following frequently stated fact has not yet palled upon you. A discount of twenty-five per cent allowed on all heavy suits and overcoats. Remember the discount is deducted from prices already phenomenally low. All the clothing in these successive offerings are fresh and regular, and are sold at these absurdly cheap figures to arrange and readjust the stock. The influx of Spring styles demands additional space---hence the sacrifice. The bargain compass points to us.
